Plan Bigger 'Little House'

Famous Facility Soon to Get New Addition

Officers of the Peninsula Volunteers were to have met last night with members of the city's recreation commission, to discuss plans for a proposed 2616-square-foot addition to Little House, nationally-known senior recreation center in Nealon park.

If approved by the recreation group, the proposed addition—which includes a large crafts room, lapidary room and general crafts room—will be viewed by the city's planning commission March 26.

The addition, when and if completed, will be on the southerly end of the present building, and will be similar in shape to the "L" at the northerly end of the senior recreation center. Thus, it will change the shape of the building to that of a "U".

The eight-year-old facility, which first held forth in a rented house at Doyle and Menlo avenues and which originally had four members and which now has more than 1300 participating in its scheduled activities and classes, has attracted wide recognition and endorsement as a way of meeting the needs of persons over 50.

Members of Little House, too, have backed the project by contributing funds to augment those being raised by the Peninsula Volunteers, the latter a women's service group made up of area matrons.

In a prepared statement issued this week, Building Chairman Mrs. Leland S. Rosener Jr. said that the plans would be submitted to city officials in response to requests from many leading citizens who have recognized the need of the growing number of senior citizens for continued activity and interests upon retirement.

The present Little House, on city property leased back to the Peninsula Volunteers for $1 a year, was completed in 1954.

NATIONALLY NOTED

At that time congratulations were received from such notables as President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Vice-President Richard Nixon and Governor Goodwin J. Knight.

Officials of the U.S. department of health, education and welfare have also expressed continued keen interest in the project.

Mrs. Richard Barger, president of the PV's, recalled this week:

"Last year in January, membership in Little House passed its 1000 mark, and today there are 1300 active members.

"Recently, members of the seniors' organization voted to turned over $4000 raised through bazaars, cake sales and rummage sales, to aid in the new building enterprise.

"The necessity for more interest in the activities for persons over 50 is dramatically shown in the response to the growth of this project.

"Rocgnizing this need, the Peninsula Volunteers' membership has voted to turn over the entire proceeds of their annual fundraising project which this year takes place May 18 at the Menlo Circus club in Atherton.

Report Hints 4 Classes Too Many in Fall

Menlo Park School District is expected to have four more classes than it will have room for, when school opens next fall. Double sessions have been seen as the answer.

School District Superintendent Dr. Melville Homfeld reported Monday that, even with no additional pupils in the district, each class will have to open at or close to the maximum set by school district policy.

Even so, there will be 36 classes east of El Camino Real as compared with the 34 now; there will be 53 classes west of the highway compared to 52 this year.

One science classroom at Hillview school is to be returned to the purpose for which it was built, rather than serve as a regular classroom.

Homfeld said that all of the 89 classes expected will open "at, or near, capacity." The district's capacity limit calls for not more than 25 pupils in kindergarten through third grade and not more than 30 pupils in classes for fourth through eighth graders.

A "major area of doubt" as to what the enrollment will be results from Stanford Village, according to Dr. Homfeld. Population of the Village changes every year and the enrollment shift is not predictable either.

A member of the audience, hearing the figures, called for study of the proposed "four quarter school." This he said, was only "good economy" and has been reported successful in a recent article in a national magazine.

DISCUSS METHOD

Homfeld said that he and other school administrators from various parts of the Peninsula had studied the matter several years ago, but had found that though the plan had been used successfully in some communities, it had been abandoned because of the inconvenience to families resulting.

The superintendent also pointed out that attendance areas will have to be "split" in some cases—that is, children residing next door to each other but of different grade levels might go to different schools.

He explained, however, that the district will attempt to prevent situations in which two children from the same household will have to attend different educational plants.

Board Chairman Ben G. Holland ordered Homfeld to continue studies, aimed at finding out what sort of "split session" or "double session" setup would be the best for solving the room shortage.

'Nabob' Sale on Today

Menlo Park's downtown merchants today were rolling out a figurative carpet, in order to welcome the public to a gala, three-day "Nabob Days" festival of bargains and sales.

More than 45 Menlo Park business concerns, joining in the event, have scheduled special prices on their merchandise, bargains in keeping with the "Good-Old-Days" flavor of the occasion.

Theme for the weekend is that everybody can be a "Nabob" of the type that inhabited the south Peninsula during the latter days of the 19th century by taking advantage of the special savings being offered by Menlo Park stores.

In keeping with this theme, the carpet rolled out will have to be an ornate one.

And giving authenticity to the whole affair are the advertisements contained in special sections of the Recorder and Mid-Peninsula Buy Word, on which have been lavished the old fashioned type, borders and vocabularies of the day when Menlo Park was a stopping place for the wealthy.

"Throughout the past few weeks," Recorder Advertising Manager Bill Neylan explains, "our staff and the dozens of merchants who have joined in bringing you this old-fashioned package of values have been poring over old newspapers and magazines, studying the terminology, layout and point of view of the merchants who used to serve the glittering personalities who made their fabulous homes in the Menlo Park area.

"The experience has been a rewarding one, and it has inspired our downtown merchants to put on what we think will be one of the outstanding sales events of this or any other season."

To aid residents in geeting into the spirit of the thing, a series of special articles have been written and use of some old photographs of Menlo Park of yesteryear has been obtained.

City Studies Priority Uses For Sales Levy

Moving a step closer to pinpointing use of revenues from the additional one-cent sales tax that will go into effect here April 1, Menlo Park city councilmen Tuesday night once more looked over a suggested priority list for capital improvements in the city.

And along with his suggested list, Councilman Ira Bonde proposed that, following cost estimates and agreement on what should come first, the city should finance the improvements through a general obligation bond issue to be paid off with the sales tax revenues.

Councilman studied Bonde's list and referred it to the city administration for any additions that might be made. Fred Simon, Chamber of Commerce manager, also was requested to take the matter up with the chamber directors for any suggestions they might have.

NEEDS SUGGESTED

Bonde's suggestions, "not necessarily in their order of importance," listed: underpass at the Southern Pacific railroad; completion of park facilities in the Wilows and Belle Haven, at Oak Knoll and Hillview schools and in Burgess Park; a youth center in Belle Haven Park; a youth center and community building in the civic center; new police station; more commuter and off-street parking, and the installation of a "a number of needed traffic signals."

Councilman Charles P. Burgess emphasized that the city should wait to receive at least one quarter's sales tax revenues before making any specific allocation of the funds.

"Then we should study the program," he said, "and work out a bond issue that can be financed with a conservative sales tax revenue figure."

In answer to a question from Bonde, Burgess pointed out that the maximum bonded indebtedness of the city is 15 per cent of the assessed valuation, or about $4,500,000.

APPOINTED

APPOINTED to the Menlo Park recreation commission this week by Mayor George S. Ford was Marcus R. McCraven, above, electronics engineer with the University of California Radiation Laboratories in Livermore. A veteran of three years' service with the U.S. Army Engineers and a graduate of Howard University, Washington, D. C., McCraven resides at 616 Ivy drive with his wife, Marguerite, an dtheir three children: Carol, 5; Stephan, 2½, and Paul, 1.

25,000 Total Seen By MP Officials

A special nose-count of residents in both Atherton and Menlo Park is being scheduled for late this spring.

Both cities have asked the U.S. Census Bureau to take a special census "before the end of May." This will allow time to file the new results with the state in order to receive state gasoline tax allocations on the basis of the new figures during the third quarter of the year, according to Menlo Park Administrative Assistant John R. Johnson.

Johnson informed the city council Tuesday night that Atherton was proposing to schedule such a count and that Atherton Town Clerk W. Howard Boren had approached Menlo Park with a suggestion for similar action here at the same time. This will enable both cities to secure a lower cost for the undertaking.

$7 PER RESIDENT

Since the state allocates gas tax funds to cities on a per capita basis, each resident of the city is worth about $7 in municipal funds. Johnson pointed out that the last census, taken in April, 1955, cost about $2200. The city now estimates from the number of new apartments and homes completed in the interim that population here has increased by about 1200 persons. This could mean an increase in state funds of some $8500 per year, Johnson pointed out.

After weighing these factors, councilmen directed Johnson to go ahead with the proposal.

"It seems to be a reasonable gamble," said Councilman Valle Andrus.

If the city's estimated increase proves accurate, the census should show Menlo Park's population to be just over 25,000. The 1955 special census showed 23,811.

In Atherton, the 1955 figure was 6231. Boren has estimated that the figure now is about 6950 on the basis of new homes completed since that time.

In Menlo Park, since 1955, Johnson said there have been 442 apartment units and 148 single family dwellings completed.

In Report to Trustees:

Menlo District Teachers Ask $400-a-Year Salary Increase

Menlo Park Elementary School District trustees were this week seeking less expensive alternatives to a request for what amounted to a $400 across-the-board pay increase for the district's teaching staff.

Taking no stand but indicating they favored—in spirit, at least—most of the provisions in it, the trustees learned of the request in a report from the school district's teachers' salary committee.

They also learned that teachers favor a merit plan which would reward outstanding teachers in the district with a $500 lump sum payment at the end of the teaching year.

'DEPEND ON TEACHERS'

In submitting the report, Committee Co-Chairman Charles Barker pointed out:

"The level of education in any school district is largely dependent upon the qualifications of the teachers who can be obtained by that district.

"The desirability of a school district is determined by several factors. Probably the primary consideration of most teachers is salary.

"However, an equally important factor is the attitude of the community toward education and teachers in general.

"In the light of the failure of the recent school bond issue in Menlo Park, teachers now in the district, those graduating from nearby institutions or those contemplating employment here may question the desirability of remaining in or entering into a community that seems to have such little regard for its children that it is unwilling to provide facilities in keeping with the quality of the community."

"If a good education is to be made available for the children of Menlo Park with minimum facilities and opportunities, it will become the sole responsibility of the teacher to provide that education. The well qualified teacher needed for this type of program is in great demand, and must be obtained at a greater cost than probably would be necessary in hiring the average or below-average teacher.'

PAR VALUE

In adjusting terms of contracts, the committee, Barker said, recommended also that years of teaching experience outside of the Menlo Park district be given "par value;" this has formerly been at the discretion of the administration and school board.

The committee also asks that teachers be hired before midyear, be given a full year's seniority credit if they remain with the district, and that teachers taking postgraduate work must verify the passage of courses by midyear.

Trustee James Black, who "sat in" on meetings of the salary committee, said that he had told its members to "consult their professional consciences" in seeking pay raises, and reserved his right to disagree.

He said that the request for a "reward" system for outstanding teachers was an opportunity for the school district, and concurred with Barker in the observation that it was unorthodox, in that most teachers did not care for such a "weapon" in the hands of most school boards.

BASED ON EVALUATION

The merit plan, according to District Superintendent Dr. Melville Homfeld, would be based on a continuing teacher evaluation plan which has been developed in the district during the past eight years.

Under it—and under the merit plan proposal, as submitted by the teachers—evaluation would be by the administrators most familiar with the individual classroom teacher.

A teacher would not be able to apply for "career teacher" rating until he had a total of five years experience of which two would have to be spent in Menlo Park.

Professional growth, teaching performance and professional attitude would all be considered in the rating.

Barker said he felt no percentile number of teachers should be set, for the "reward."

Trustees agreed to defer consideration until they can "figure costs in comparison with the possible loss of opportunity to hire good teachers."

District business manager said that, if the $400 raise is adopted, and increments for seniority and post graduate work are added, the average teacher's salary will be up $700 next year over this year's.

School Budget Sees Costs Topping Income

School District Business Manager John Richert was this week still working on a proposed tentative budget for the 1957-58 school year, after telling members of the district board of trustees that revenues now in view may not cover anticipated operating expenses.

Possible raises in the teachers' salary schedule, added to annual increments which will be due to permanent members of the staff, further complicate the picture.

At their regular study meeting Monday, Reichert told the trustees that a total income of $964,643 can be foreseen for the operating budget next school year; income for the current school year is to be about $932,955.

However, addition of three science and mathematics teachers, three classroom teachers and two remedial reading teachers will mean a raise in the teaching staff from 88 certificated teachers to 96.

Richert held out one ray of hope: current legislation in the state assembly and senate, aimed at getting more money for schools, may see a higher ADA payment than that anticipated; the district, otherwise, will get $126 per child in attendance from the state.

The business manager's figures showed that, if a teacher's salary schedule presented by the district teachers' salary committee were adopted, and the additional personnel were hired, it would push the total "certificated salaries of instruction" item in the budget from $547,926 to $667,671, an increase of 21 percent.

FIGURES RISE

This is an increase of $120,000, whereas under present law the district's income is only expected to grow some $31,000.

Eighty-seven percent of the district's current budget is used for salaries and wages, Richert declared.

He added that the district's growth in assessed valuation has averaged about $2,000,000 each year for the past four or five years, and that this has been used as the basis for figuring an increase from $536,756 to $570,180 in income from the locally-levied $1.75 per $100 assessed valuation tax rate.

Atherton Police Check Burglary At High School

Atherton police were this week investigating a break-in and burglary of Menlo-Atherton High school, in which two pay telephones were taken from the wall of the school's administration building. About $1 was also taken from Principal Nicholas Nugent's desk.

The burglary was discovered by Nugent Saturday morning, at about 9:2 0a.m. He said he discovered that a window to the office had been broken, and that a window to the school's main hall had also been broken, and called Atherton police. Nugent declared the entry must have been gained after 1a.m. Saturday.

Atherton Police Chief Leroy Hubbard said investigating members of his department had some clues which might aid in catching the culprit.

It was the first such crime to be reported from Menlo-Atherton High School since the school opened six years ago.

Sump Plan Dumped:

Menlo Residents in New Proposal To Escape Atherton Drain District

Residents of the Valparaiso district of Menlo Park this week took a new tack in their fight against inclusion in the proposed $900,000 Atherton canal drainage district. And informal discussion among Menlo Park councilmen indicated that the new approach might win favor with that body.

In a letter to the council, the group jettisoned its former stand in favor of separately financed sumps to handle storm water in the area. "We are willing to forego further considerations of sumps at this time," the letter stated. "It is obvious that sumps would not suffice in metropolitan areas."

In place of the sump proposal, the group urged that a separate assessment district be formed within the city of Menlo Park and that the city then bargain with the Atherton district for connection to the canal system.

"It seems a reasonable solution," commented Councilman Charles P. Burgess. "We would pay for our share at the same time keeping Menlo Park control over the area."

"That is the heart of the petition," said F. L. W. MacDonald, chairman of the committee of residents.

The group took its action following receipt of a report from Calvin M. Jones, a civil engineer retained independently by the residents.

Some figures in the Jones report did not correspond with estimates made by City Engineer Edwin H. Smith. The report and the suggestions for a searate district were ordered for further study to check the figures and feasibility of the plan.

Red Cross Gets $5000 Start On $67,000 Goal

Southern San Mateo County Chapter, American Red Cross, has received $5000 to date toward its $67,000 fund goal, according to Robert G. Starkweather of Menlo Park, campaign chairman. The first report luncheon will be held Tuesday, March 12, at the chapter house in Menlo Park.

Chairman for individual communities in the chapter area will make detailed reports at that time, Starkweather said.

He added that neighborhood solicitors will get credit for contributions mailed in to the chapter at 3540 Middlefield road, Menlo Park.

May 30 Opening Of Library Seen

Menlo Park's new municipal library should be completed and ready for use by May 30, the city council was told Tuesday night by Warren Natwick, chairman of the board of library trustees.

On recommendation of the trustees, the city also awarded a contract for $21,937.44 worth of library furnishings to Remington Rand.

Sierra Electronic Signals Start Of Operations at New Plant Here

Official grand opening reception for leaders of area industry and the community was held yesterday at the new 35,000-square-foot electronics plant in Bohannon Industrial park, signalling the official start of operations here.

More than 400 northern California scientists, engineers, educators and businessmen were guided through the plant, into which the Philco subsidiary is moving from a present location in San Carlos.

Philco President James M. Skinner, Vice-President Henry F. Argento and other Philco officers were on hand for the opening.

Sierra Vice-President and General Manager W. Feldscher explained the new steel and concrete structure was made necessary to accommodate the firm's steady growth; possibility of expansion at the previous location, he said, was dictated by physical limtiations.

He pointed out that when founded in 1947, some 95 per cent of volume was research and manufacturing connected with governmental projects. Today only about 30 per cent of the company's volume is federally-connected, the rest being commercial sales of proprietary test equipment, components, and other electronic products.

The local firm will ultimately provide employment for some 500 Peninsula residents, Feldscher added.

The new plant is not in Menlo Park, but is situated on a 4.8 acre site in that portion of Bohannon Industrial park bounded by the Southern Pacific tracks, Bayshore highway, and Marsh road. Adequate offstreet parking, in keeping with the high standards maintained through deed restrictions, will be maintained.

The building has been two years, four months in construction, wich was by tilt-up block method.

Contractor was Williams and Boroughs; August E. Waegemann was the architect.

Effective Treatment:

Gray Ladies Issue Call for Aid In Music Therapy at VA Hospital

Mrs. Jane Greenleaf of 1775 Oak avenue, Menlo Park, American Red Cross hospital representative, announced this week that local chapters of the Red Cross have been requested by the Special Services division of the Menlo Park Veterans hospital to embark upon a campaign to recruit aides who have a genuine interest in music.

These volunteers will assist the hospital staff with the music program for the veteran patients. Women who either enjoy or understand music from an appreciation point of view are needed to play recordings, to discuss music compositions, or to assist the patients in their selection of music recordings at the new music building on the hospital grounds.

Music, according to B. J. Rudquist, chief of special services and a member of the National Music Therapists Association, is one of the more effective therapeutic activities which is presently used in our psychiatric treament plan to assist in the resocialization of the mentally ill patient.

Music has both soothing and stimulating qualities, and is so varied in composition and rhythm that through careful selection the music therapist can always find a type of music specifically suited for the individual patient's needs.

"The Gray Ladies extend our music staff's efforts by escorting the patients from the wards to the Music building and through tete-a-tete discussions on friendly and familiar music compositions," said Rudquist.

Mrs. Greenleaf said the hospital needs volunteers to provide afternoon music services, Monday through Friday, every week. Other volunteer assistance is needed in other services said Rudquist. For example, the hospital needs volunteers to operate 16-mm motion picture projectors in the wards.

Persons interested in serving the veteran patients should contact the Southern San Mateo County Chapter Red Cross, EM 6-3851.

SPONSOR MOVIE

"Hawaii, U.S.A.", a color film by Fran William Hall, will be shown Wednesday, March 13, in the Morris Dailey Auditorium at San Jose State College. The movie is the last in a series of Screen Tours sponsored by the Santa Clara Valley Audubon Society. It will begin at 8 p.m.

Ben G. Holland To Give Up School Post

"Three terms on the school board is enough," Ben G. Holland, a member of the Menlo Park School District's governing board for the past nine years, declared this week in announcing that he would not be a candidate in the May 17 school election.

So far, no candidates have filed for the post.

Holland, who resides at 61 Frederick avenue, has been a resident of this area for the past 16 years. Prior to that time, he lived in Palo Alto. He is at present a real estate salesman.

Holland told members of the press of his decision, following Monday s regular informal meeting of the school district board. He added that he is giving up his school position in order to be able to spend more time with his family and to devote more time to business.

His family includes his wife and three sons, one of whom is in college, another of whom is in Menlo-Atherton high school and the third, an eighth grader at Encinal school.

Meanwhile, no new candidates have announced themselves for the post which Holland will leave vacant. April 17 is the closing date for the filing of candidacies, however, so there is plenty of time for a campaign to open.

Persons planning to run for office may pick up the necessary blanks at the office of the county superintendent of schools.

All elementary scnool districts in the area, the Sequoia High School District and the county school district board of trustees will consolidate their elections on the May 17 date; closing date for filing petitions for all of these boards is the same.

Orientation Class Next Week At VA Hospital

The Menlo Park Veteran's Administration hospital will hold its semi-annual Indoctrination and Orientation Course for Volunteer Hospital Workers on Monday, March 11 and Tuesday, March 12, it was announced this week. The two-day course will feature presentations by four psychiatrists, and in addition chiefs of other services such as nursing, social service, psychology, physical medicine and special services will discuss their treatment plans in the over-all hospital operation. over-all hospital operation.

Dr. John J. Prusmack, manager, will discuss, "The Importance of the Volunteer Workers Program." Drs. Franklin Johnson and Roy S. Hubbs will talk on "The Organization of the Psychiatric Services in the V.A. Medical Program." Dr. Bernard Brownfield will discuss, "The Neuropsychiatric Treatment Program in the Hospital."

The meetings will be held in the Psychology building auditorium on the V.A. Hospital grounds, and there will be both afternoon and evening sessions. B. J. Rudquist, Chief of Special Services, stated that all prospective volunteer workers may attend either afternoon or evening sessions as fits their convenience.

He added that adequate care of the mentally-ill requires understanding and cooperation among all those who care for patients no matter how brief or casual the contacts with these patients may be. Therefore, it is essential that all volunteer workers should be both suited to and trained for their assignments.

Fuller information may be had by contacting Rudquist at the hospital, DA 3-0071.

Suspects in Burglary Here Plead Guilty to 'Lumped' Crime Charges

Five Redwood City men, accused of participation in the burglarization of a sport shop here, Monday pleaded guilty to a variety of charges in San Mateo county Superior court, and will be sentenced March 25.

The five are the first of a total of 12 young men and juveniles, accused of engineering a burglary wave in which some $15,000 worth of merchandise and money was taken from area stores.

Police Chief George Potter said this week that charges resulting from the recent entry of Shreve and Pryce Sport shop, 705 Oak Grove avenue, would be "lumped" with those of other police agencies.

The members of the gang are accused of taking more than 20 guns, including hand guns as well as rifles and shotguns, in their foray in Menlo Park.

A group of three members of the gang are to face charges in San Mateo county municipal court on charges of participating in robberies there; two of the remaining suspects are juveniles and currently lodged at Hillcrest.

The roundup was one of the largest to be conducted in recent years. It was started Feb. 16, when members of the county sheriff's staff noted several youths, usually shabbily clad, had blossomed out in new clothes.

At about the same time, the sheriff's officers and police in various cities in the county began getting reports of burglaries in various clothing stores.

The five awaiting sentencing at the present time include Robert Sidebottom, 21; his brother, Ronald, 19; James Grandon, 19; Gerald A. Romero, 23 and William R. Laing Jr., 19.

Chief Potter said the guns taken locally had not yet been returned to the store here, but would be, as soon as released by San Mateo county Superior court. They are now being held as evidence.

Raymond Fickes Retires After Federal Career

After 38 years of governmental service Raymond Fickes has retired from his position as Finance Officer for the Veterans' hospital here.

Fickes started working for the government on October 1, 1917 in the Quartermaster Supply department at Fort Mason during World War I. After leaving Fort Mason he came to Menlo Park to accept a position with the Veterans Bureau at the site of the present V.A. hospital.

He remained at this same station and successfully progressed through the supervisory positions within the finance division until he was promoted to Chief Finance Officer of the hospital.

Fickes was married to his wife, Olga Stephanie, in 1936, and has one daughter, Sandra, now attending the University of California, also a 5-year-old son, Raymond, Jr.

He is a member of the local lodge of the BPOE. His plans—just to take it easy for a while—nothing definite as yet.

He resides at 945 Evelyn street in Menlo Park.

The members of the Finance department gave a farewell luncheon for Fickes last week.

Area Students at Asilomar Meet

Seven high school students from Menlo Park and Atherton were among the hundreds from throughout California who last week converged on Asilomar, to hear Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas speak on "The Future of Freedom in the World."

Occasion was the second annual conference on civil liberties, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

Those who attended from this area included Dick Campbell, Julie Ann Eichorn, Valerie Jansen, Katherine Moses, Jane Marsh, Peggy Twist and Roger Whitmire.

The speakers heard, in addition to Justice Douglas, were Carl Spaeth, dean of Stanford university school of law; Josephine Duveneck of the American Friends Service Committee; Clark Kerr, chancellor of the University of California; Jessie Carter of California supreme court and Alexander Miller, of the Stanford faculty.

New Executives of Citizens' Panel Holds 1st Meet on School Problems

Members of the Menlo Park School District Citizens' council, newly elected last week, met Saturday for discussion of "broad general outlines" of their forthcoming work.

L. L. Johnson was elected chairman of the group, at a meeting held Feb. 27 at Central school. Saturday's meeting was also held at Central school.

Johnston, the new president, is manager of the Menlo Park Branch of the Bank of America. Last December, he was re-elected to a second, one-year term as chairman of the Live Oak District committee of the Boy Scouts of America; he is also an active member of the Menlo Park Lions club and served as a charter member of the board of directors of the Menlo Park Chamber of Commerce.

"The meeting Saturday was for the purpose of orientating ourselves, before opening a study of the long-range needs of the Menlo Park School District, Johnston declared. He added that no policy decisions were made, and pointed out that many of the members of the new executive committee have not previously been associated with the citizens' council.

These include executive board member Charles P. Burgess, a Menlo Park city councilman since 1944 and for many years the city's mayor. He also served for one term as a member of the Sequoia High School District board of trustees, and served for a year as president of the League of California Cities.

Vice-chairman of the newly organized group is Wallace E. Ott, Menlo Park insurance broker who is this year completing his first term as a member of the Menlo Park Fire District board of fire commissioners.

Mrs. Arnold Manson is secretary for the group and Mrs. Verne Seybold, its treasurer.

Other members of the board include, besides Burgess, Harry M. Conley, Henry A. Dangler, Raymond J. Doyle and George B. Likens.

Mrs. M. E. Schwartz, a member of the nominating committee which named candidates for the executive board, presided at the meeting at which they were elected.

Menlo Park Moves to Annex First Portion of Stanford Hills Area

Menlo Park's city council this week took first official steps to annex some 47 acres of Stanford University land west of the city. With receipt of a formal petition from trustees of the university, councilmen Tuesday night passed a resolution expressing their intention of annexing the area and set 8 p.m. April 16 as time for public hearing on the matter.

Forerunner of a 940-acre residential development, to be known at Stanford Hills, an 81-home subdivision in the area of the annexation parcel is to be built by Peninsula Pacific Construction Company.

Menlo Park city planners Monday night viewed a map of the proposed subdivision and gave it their tentative approval.

Under current plans, the first homes, in the $33,000 to $50,000 class, would be ready for occupancy in November, according to Harry Arnold, president of the development firm. The initial subdivision consists of lots from one-quarter to three-quarters of an acre. Later developments may run up to five acres.

The university has also been thinking about a golf course on the Stanford Hills site, Alf E. Brandin, the school's executive officer for land development, told members of the Menlo Park Planning Commission earlier this week.

Brandin emphasized that the course was only in the "thinking" stage; that financing and other serious problems had to be worked out before the course could be created.

All told, Stanford has 3500 acres earmarked for residential development, enough to provide homes for some 20,000 people. Most of the area will be adjacent to Menlo Park, although the planners speculated that a portion of the area may become part of Woodside.

CAN'T BE SOLD

None of the land will be sold—under terms of Leland Stanford's will the land can only be leased. Peninsula Pacific has leased the 30-acre site for 99 years.

The Menlo Park construction firm, which built many of the homes in the Oak Knoll area, expects to break ground for roads and utilities in mid-April, Arnold said, while construction of the first home is expected to begin Aug. 1.

The area will be developed in a series of fairly small and uncrowded neighborhoods, with school and recreational sites reserved in advance.

Power and telephone lines will be laid in underground conduit, and trees will be planted at street and lot lines.

Negotiations with subdividers for progressive development of additional areas are under way, Brandin disclosed. In making leases, the university retains control of all land use and architectural plans.

FIRST DEVELOPMENT—Stanford Hills, the first unit in a 3500-acre residential program planned by Stanford University, is pointed out on a topographical map by Alf E. Brandin, Stanford's land development officer, to Harry Arnold, president of Peninsula Pacific Construction Company of Menlo Park. Peninsula Pacific has leased the first neighborhood site in Stanford Hills and expects to begin subdivision work the middle of April.

SRI Building Plan Study Deferred By City Body

Members of the Menlo Park Planning Commission will study revised plans for the proposed Stanford Research Building at their monthly study meeting March 18.

The planners put the SRI request over to their study meeting because Omar Spain, SRI land executive, was unable to attend their regular meeting Monday night.

A use permit and architectural control request to permit conversion of a building at 534 Bayshore freeway into a church was set for hearing April 1. The request was made by the Menlo Park Christian Methodist Church.

Requests by the city council that the planners study the proposed renaming of "B" street in the civic center area to Mielke drive and that a fence ordinance be studied were put over to the study meeting.

The planners recommended to city council that a resubdivision request by A. Cordigian that his property on Hoover street be divided into two lots be approved.

PRESENTS PUPIL

Robert Vetlesen, head of the piano department at the Peninsula Conservatory in Burlingame, will present his pupil, Gordon Getty, in recital at the Peninsula Room in Hillsdale Sunday afternoon, March 10. Getty will play three groups of compositions by Chopin, Schubert and Brahms, will also sing two songs.

$150,000 Bond Issue on Ballot For Woodside School District

Woodside Elementary School District voters will go to the polls on May 17 to decide on a $150,000 bond issue as the result of a special meeting held by the school board last Wednesday evening.

An addtiional $40,000 slated for major capital outlay, totalled from $10,000 for each school year to August, 1959 since the permissive override tax of $2.00 passed in 1955, will be added to the proposed $150,000 for a $190,000 sum, adequate to construct five new classrooms for the existing Woodside School and to purchase a new site for a second school at a later date.

The five new classrooms would be ready for use by September, 1958, should the bond issue pass.

District Superintendent Dal G. Smullen, pointing out that this will be only the sixth bond issue to hit the district since 1888, said that the board will seek additional funds only as pupil increase requires it. Whenever student population numbers within one hundred of acceptable capacity, the board will request another bond issue.

When the proposed five classrooms are built, pupil capacity of the present school plant will total 450, allowing 50 children in each grade, two classes for each grade, with double sessions only for the kindergarten.

Planners Okay Pet Hospital For Menlo Park

A San Marino veterinarian was granted permission by the Menlo Park Planning Commission Monday night to build an animal hospital at 1258 El Camino Real.

Included in the plans of Dr. W. W. Eastep for the animal hospital are runs at the rear of the building and parking facilities for 10 automobiles.

In another action, the planners okayed a minor change in fencing at the Chuck Thompson Swimming Pool, currently under construction at Glenwood avenue and San Antonio street.

The planners also okayed an addition to the A. C. Nielsen Co. building at 70 Willow road, They also approved a home occupation permit for Harry L. Dyberg, 1787 Santa Cruz avenue, to allow him to conduct a real estate office from that location.

Other contestants in last night's contest included two of Dorothy's schoolmates at Menlo-Atherton High School, Peter Briggs and Dale Stopp. Richard McCulloch, a senior student from Los Angeles represented Menlo School as the fourth speaker.

West Point Team At Menlo College For Suez Debate

The West Point Debate Forum engaged a team of Menlo College students in a panel discussion in the Florence Moore auditorium on the Atherton campus Wednesday afternoon. Subject of the discussion was "Suez."

The West Point debaters are considered the finest in the nation; the training of officers at the Academy involves considerable attention to speaking and clear, logical thinking.

This is the first time that a small college has had the opportunity of playing host to the West Pointers. In the past their teams have engaged only the major universities which specialize in speech activities.

The West Pointers were guests of the Menlo team at a luncheon in the college Commons before the panel discussion.

Realtors' State President Sees Sales Tax as 'More Equitable'

More than 20 members of the Menlo Park-Atherton Board of Realtors last week heard J. Mortimer Clark, president of the California Real Estate Association, endorse the municipal sales tax levies as a "less harmful" than added burdens on the property owner.

Occasion was a dinner honoring Clark, presented by member boards of the 25th district of the CREA, at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo.

Clark also revealed that of the 7000 legislative bills currently before the legislature, some 700 affect the real estate profession and are currently being studied by the state organization's legislative committee.

In endorsing the municipal sales tax during part of a longer talk, Clark told of the experience of the San Francisco Real Estate Board, which was able to show supervisors in that city that, in order to raise the property tax enough to get needed revenues, it would be necessary to raise assessments to an unwholesomely large portion of the value of each property.

Thus, a half percent hike in the sales tax levy was pointed out as a more equitable alternative, protecting property values and at the same time spreading the cost load to a larger number of citizens.

The bulk of Clark's talk concerned moral obligations of Realtors, not only to themselves but to their community, nation, customers and clients.

MENLO PARK FIREMEN were summoned Wednesday morning to the home of Alma Jenkins, 77 Wilburn avenue, Atherton, to extinguish a settee which was ablaze. Damage, caused mostly by smoke, was set at $200.

As We See It:

MORE ON COUNTY MERGER

In keeping with the spirit of Nabob Value Days and the nostalgic glance over-the-shoulder engendered by this occasion, we were looking through old files of the Menlo Park Recorder this week.

In passing, we came across two more items of interest anent the proposal made by San Francisco's Mayor George Christopher that San Mateo County should now consider uniting with that friendly community to the north.

We quote from Page One of the Recorder for October 25, 1924:

"Definite steps have been taken in various Peninsula towns this week to bring about a complete study of the proposal to amalgamate San Mateo and San Francisco counties, the matter is receiving the close attention of citizens in all parts of the county.

"Burlingame was the first municipality to name a committee member, Gordon C. Hess being selected . . . Menlo Park being an unincorporated town will have no official representative but the chamber of commerce has appointed J. H. Sullivan to serve on the committee from this locality.

"Monday the San Francisco supervisors adopted a resolution authorizing Mayor James Rolph, Jr., to name a member from San Francisco to serve on the committee. . . .

"It is expected that a meeting will be held in San Mateo on Wednesday evening. . . .

"The following article taken from Wednesday's issue of the Daily News Leader of San Mateo and written by C. Murphy of that town is worthy of careful consideration and no doubt will be read with interest by local people:

"'From her geographical position and the magnificence of her harbor, flanked by the richest agricultural background of any known city, San Francisco, the metropolis of the Pacific, is destined to be one of the greatest cities in the world.

"'I am of the opinion that complete annexation of the whole of San Mateo County with San Francisco will bring greater results than any of the other forms suggested, such as the borough or the metropolitan district plans, which at best would only be patchwork and unsatisfactory.

"'This opportunity of a real practical development that San Mateo County has today, is the envy of every other county in the state, and we should therefore grasp it without hesitation.

"'It will create such a confidence in our future that the tide of those San Francisco people who formerly built up and supported the east bay cities will set in toward the Peninsula. . . .

"'The people of San Mateo County must realize that without the development of industries, it would be physically impossible for them to care for the large influx of people who would wish to settle among them.

"'This will be the critical situation facing them, and which can only be avoided by their becoming an integral part of San Francisco whose confidence and financial influence alone can secure large manufacturing plants to locate along San Mateo's bay shore. . . .

"'Let no empty local sentiment or selfish political interest now block chances of progress. . . .'"

And then, in the Recorder for January 8, 1932 — eight years later — we find Editor L. E. Harris quoting from an editorial in the Redwood City Tribune. That editorial well suits our own forebodings in regard to the committee that Mayor Christopher proposes to study the plan again:

"Of course the San Francisco-San Mateo County Consolidation Committee approved the general plans of unifying the two counties! What other possible course could have been taken, when the group was originally started off with that idea fixed definitely in mind, and has kept it in mind during the three years in which a plan has been worked out that would make consolidation of the two political units possible?

"San Francisco did not ask the bureau of governmental research to go out and find that the consolidation of the two neighboring counties was undesirable.

"San Francisco has not brought about changes in state law that would make it possible — and easier — to swallow up San Mateo County, without a pre-determined policy to do that.

"San Francisco has not taken the initiative right from the start, even though continuously shouting that the 'first moves' must come from San Mateo — the smaller unit — without desperately hoping to unify the two counties.

"San Francisco has not dined and feted prominent San Mateans without hoping to convince them that the big city politicians are not such a bad lot as they sometimes are painted.

"No! And that is why the committee's report that the general plan 'is a proper one' did not come as a surprise to peninsulans.

"What San Mateans should be asking is just how far San Francisco's consolidation propaganda has made inroads in San Mateo county. Undoubtedly advances have been made on the unprotected fronts. San Francisco has corrected some of the undesirable features of its old government, but that does not necessarily mean that San Mateo county wants to give up its single blissfulness to contract a marriage that will wipe out its identity.

"That end may be forestalled only by acts on the part of San Mateans themselves."

Ah yes indeed!

In 1924, the great attraction San Mateo county found in the plan was the thought that San Francisco's great "confidence and financial influence" might lead industry to settle within our borders. Today, even that attraction does not exist. If anything, the thought of gaining new industry for herself may be behind San Francisco's exhumation of the long-dead proposition.

In 1932, it was no surprise that the study committee found the plan workable, and we rather suspect that such would again be the outcome.

Mass Meeting Opened City Election Drive

The files of the Menlo Park Recorder reveal that, 25 years ago this week, the following items, here reproduced exactly as first published, were news in the young community:

March 5, 1932:

"W. H. Weeden, Mayor of Menlo Park who has been a member of the City Council since the city's incorporation, and Edward Hutson Hart, for ten years a leading citizen of the community, were unanimously proclaimed candidates for the City Council at a citizens meeting at the parish hall Saturday night.

"It is estimated that more than 100 enthusiastic residents from all sections of the city attended the meeting to inaugurate the campaign for election of progressive, capable councilmen on April 11th. Dennis E. O'Keefe acted as chairman. . . ."

* * *

FREMONT STREET PAVING PROPOSED

"A petition was filed Wednesday wtih City Engineer Bert J. Mehl, for preliminary checking, signed by approximately eighty per cent of the property owners on Fremont street asking the city council to commence legal proceedings to have their street improved. . . ."

'SCRIPT', DOG TRACK PROPOSED FOR CITY

"On February 19th, the Recorded printed an article about the town of Grand Rapids which was run on a script system, and which has solved the unemployment trouble in this way. . . .

"Victor Du Pont and John W. Morey are promoting a dog race track here with a script system of payment which is believed will go a long way towards getting the unemployed of the city to work.

"That relief for the unemployed is the sole object of locating a dog race track in Menlo Park was the statement made yesterday by Victor DuPont . . .

Your City's Business:

Use of Sales Tax Money Needs Further Study

By CHARLES P. BURGESS
City Councilman, Menlo Park

At the city council meeting last week, Councilman Ira Bonde proposed that we should draw up a program of capital improvements with estimated costs, so that we could determine a schedule of allocation of the funds from the city sales tax available for such purposes.

Of course, a portion of the proceeds, roughly half as we can estimate at this time, will be applied against the property tax, reducing the rate from what it otherwise would have been. The balance will be placed in a special fund to be used for needed public projects.

The capital needs of the city are primarily along three lines: recreation facilities, traffic facilities, and parking facilities. We must attack these deficiencies, in my opinion, simultaneously.

Recreation needs are a community youth center and general community recreation building (one building should handle both activities), improvements at the Belle Haven and Willow parks, and additional facilities at the other city parks.

The primary traffic need is the piercing of the railroad barrier between El Camino Real and Middlefield road with a grade separation crossing. Widening of several of our major streets is also an early must.

Off-street parking is needed for both Southern Pacific commuters and over a period of time for our central business district. The two needs have some relationship, for many all day parkers usurp the commercial district facilities. It is as reasonable to allocate a portion of sales tax money to the acquisition and improvement of off-street parking facilities as is parking meter money, which is so used in many cities.

I noted news reports to the effect that a county political group denounced the sales tax measures passed by Menlo Park, Redwood City and San Carlos, parrotting the line that goes, "the sales tax is regressive and hits those who can least afford to pay it."

This phrase is repeated so often many people believe it. But the fact is that our California sales tax with foodstuffs exempt is not regressive, as is certainly the property tax which the sales tax supplements.

Of course, in this day of almost universal automobile ownership, the institution of parking meters, which Menlo Park, almost alone on the Peninsula has avoided, is a clear example of a regression tax.

It costs not more in parking meter tax to park a 1957 Cadillac on the main street than a 1937 Ford.

This does not seem to occur to those groups dedicating themselves to a fight against the sales tax because of its asserted "regressive" nature.

Area Stork Report

THE PROUDEST FATHER in Menlo Park these days is undoubtedly Andrew Jones, 1220 Henderson avenue, whose wife gave birth to a son, Robert Andrew, Feb. 25. The 8-pounder is a welcome baby in the Jones house, for with four girls in the family, the young man was long-awaited. The Joneses add that they are not only proud of their new son, but very much pleased with how efficiently their girls took over the responsibilities of the household while mother was in the hospital. According to Mrs. Jones, Andrea, 13, was a "second mother" to Arnell, 11; Gilda, 10, and Connie, 9.

* * *

ANOTHER EXTRA - SPECIAL baby arrived at the home of the Paul Zunigas, 1262 El Camino Real, Menlo Park, on Feb. 22. The Zunigas, parents of four boys, gave birth to a daughter, Maria Dolores, who weighed 8 pounds, 3 ounces at birth. As proof that family and friends were equally pleased, "Maria now has enough frilly dresses to last until she's three.

The young lady's brothers are Richard, 9, Eric, 6, Steven, 4, and Mario, 1. Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morales are expected to arrive this weekend from their home in Los Angeles to pay their first visit to their now granddaughter.

* * *

THEIR THIRD SON, Peter Douglas was born to the David Johnstons, 212 Chester street, Menlo Park. The young man arrived Feb. 18 weighing 6 pounds, 13 ounces and is quite popular with brothers Christopher, 8, and Timothy, 5.

GET MERGER FACTS, CHRISTOPHER URGES

Editor, the Recorder:

Thank you for your letter of February 28th, together with the editorial comment in your valuable newspaper which you entitled "Thanks, your Honor—No!"

When I suggested to the people of San Francisco and San Mateo that they jointly retain the services of the Stanford Research Bureau to delve into the economics of a possible consolidation, I asked further than everyone keep an open mind pending submission of the findings. I have stated before, and I repeat now, that San Francisco will do very nicely, as well as San Mateo, if we do not effect a consolidation, but it was my further judgment that at least if some people are going to discuss consolidation in the future, we should have economic facts at hand.

Your editorial accepts and condemns the suggestion in the same breath. You state that San Francisco has everything to gain by such a move and that San Mateo County would have no advantage in this direction. Perhaps you are right. I would not want to express my judgment until I had the facts, which no one has at this time.

You state further that San Francisco is watching industry move into San Mateo County. In all of my travels to the east, I have encouraged such a move. I reiterate that San Francisco cannot aspire to be an industrial center. We will be the commercial, financial and headquarters center for industry but the large industrial plants will necessarily have to move either to San Mateo County or to the East Bay. Together we could perhaps bring them within our own boundaries.

Our tax rate is better than that of San Mateo County. Our future is assured—our fame is world renowned. Our schools are superior to most counties in the State of California and there is no advantage that San Mateo County has today that is not enjoyed by San Francisco. We have certain deficiencies, to be sure, but our credit is the best in the nation as evidenced by the low interest rate on our bonds, and we are amortizing these bonds at the rate of sixteen million dollars a year. We could not begin to spend at once all the money that can be derived from our excellent credit. The people of San Mateo County are well aware of their own deficiencies and we are quite willing to admit ours.

The Recorder always welcomes letters from its readers on any subject of public interest. Within the limitations of available space, all such letters will be published as received so long as they do not violate decency and good taste and provided they are signed.

My proposal was not to consolidate nor to bring about any move other than to encourage the receipt of vital information which I am frank to confess we do not have available to us at this moment. If the findings prove acceptable, that would be the time to discuss joining forces. If the findings prove unacceptable, then we will have lost nothing because a joint committee working as a team could do much for both San Francisco and San Mateo Counties.

Since you state at the outset that you consider my proposal a neighborly gesture but that's all it will be—a gesture and nothing more—I realize the futility of endeavoring to change your point of view. However, regardless of the outcome, please be assured of my abiding esteem and high regard for the future and economic integrity of not only the people of San Francisco but for our good neighbors in San Mateo County as well.

Sincerely yours,
George Christopher, Mayor
City of San Francisco

Smooth Mailing

Editor, Menlo Park Recorder:

On behalf of the Post Office Department, I am pleased to write this letter of commendation to you and your staff for your public spirited cooperation which contributed so much to the success of the 1956 Christmas mailing season.

The recent holiday mail moved smoothly and it was delivered promptly. We in the Postal Service are proud of the part that we played in making sure that the Christmas mail was delivered on time, but we realize that the success of the gigantic mail operation was due in a large measure to public cooperation in mailing early.

Postmaster Harry B. Morey of Menlo Park has reported to this office that you and your newspaper gave exceptional cooperation in helping to encourage the public to mail early for Christmas. Without such help we could never have succeeded as we did. Thank you very much.

VERNE SCOGGINS
Regional Director.

County Comment:

Voters May Have to Decide Many Big Financial Measures Soon

By FLOYD M. McCUE
Editor and Publisher, Redwood City Star-Advertiser

The people of San Mateo county never faced a time of more important decisions being made by government officials.

Of course, the sales tax problem has been a red hot issue in the southern part of the county and three cities, Redwood City, Menlo Park and San Carlos now have this law on the book with collections slated to start on April 1.

But a lot can happen in the next month. The first "break" in the south county bloc came last week when Belmont refused to go along with the tax plan and voted only for a county-wide plan. This reverse action in Belmont is certain to have its effects in the other three cities. Opponents of the sales tax here are determined to force the issue to a vote of the people. If the results are anything like that in Belmont (2,451 votes against and 345 for) the tax is dead here. And if the petitioners follow present plans, it will not only kill the city-adopted sales tax but will keep the local government from collecting anything if and when the county-wide tax is assessed.

The question now arises, what will Menlo Park and San Carlos city councils do if Redwood City voters do turn down the one per cent sales assessment. Can they afford to go ahead on their own?

We certainly won't attempt to guess the outcome in those cities, but we feel safe in commenting on the attitude of the board of supervisors—not that we have any idea what their decision will be if seven cities make a request for a county-wide sales tax.

Supervisor William M. Werder, we know from publicly made statements, will demand that the issue be put to a vote. Supervisor Thomas J. Callan has thoughts in the same direction, so we're told. In view of the vote in Belmont, more members of the board may be inclined to think the step too important to take without consulting the people.

Such a move would be history-making, not only here, but all over the state. While the people get to decide bond issues, they have no say, except through the ballot on candidates, on any taxing issue. No other county or city in the state has submitted the sales tax issue to the voters.

When the state adopted the sales tax program many years ago to support the school program, it was on a "temporary" basis and the citizens know the needs of the schools.

The ever-present school problems bring us to another "decision" important to everyone in the county. There isn't a school district in the county that isn't crying for more funds for building classrooms and to handle the demands of increased teacher salaries and for more teachers to handle growing enrollments.

School district bond issues are having their troubles in several parts of the county, witness the recent defeats in Menlo Park and Portola Valley. As we think of rising local government costs, so must we plan our schools needs.

The Sequoia Union High School District is planning to place a bond issue on the May election ballot.

We would ask, why have the boards of trustees of these districts left the decision up to a small, selected group of individuals who are supposed to recommend the amount of bonds to submit to the voters?

These civic-minded people who are interested in schools must accept all the figures of forecasting the future that school officials furnish. Report after report has stated the needs of the entire area, but the powers in charge apparently are afraid to come up with the total in bonds they know must be spent in the next few years.

It is wise, we admit to have a selected citizens' committee to support the bonds, but no where along the line do we find any discussion to cut down the costs of school plants. Many people with better knowledge than ours says it can be done, if the architects will do the job.

The decision? Well, this time the people will get to decide, and we hope both bond programs are presented in their true light; that the money will be spent for needed classrooms and not a lot of gold plate.

The people know the need, and if and when school plants can be constructed on a fairly good sized acreage and not a whole country-side, and when more compact and less expensive schools are planned, and when then the bonds have have easy sledding.

"We can leave the dishes. Mother's coming over to sit with the children while we go to the movie"

Five Bear Athletes Get Awards at Dinner

Turner, Ralls Receive Teamwork Award

Give Emblems To Cage Stars And Wrestler

George Brown, Fred Pegelow and Bob Wendell are the proprietors of Menlo Park Recorder Athletic Endeavor awards following presentation ceremonies at the local high school Tuesday night.

Bill Finefrock, Recorder sports editor, presented engraved gold emblems to wrestler George Brown, to Bob Wendell for varsity basketball and to Fred Pegelow for Class B basketball.

Bob Ralls and Hal Turner received a teamwork award at the same ceremony. The award is presented to the players selected by their fellow teammates. Ralls received the varsity award, while Turner received the award for the B team.

C. A. (Cab) Burley, Recorder publisher, who normally makes the awards, was unable to attend due to an emergency. Presentation of the teamwork emblems was by Nicholas Nugent, Menlo-Atherton principal.

The three men who received the Recorder awards at the annual mid-winter recognition dinner of the Menlo Atherton High School Dads Club, were selected by coaches at the high school.

Their names were also entered in a permanent record which is kept in the main lobby of the school.

Brown has been a mainstay for the Bear wrestling team for the past two years, climaxing his performance two weeks ago by taking a regional title in the 191-pound class. The rangy, 17-year-old defeated four other men in the heavy class to win in North Coast Section competition.

The Menlo - Atherton wrestler was the only one of four local wrestlers to win anything in the meet. His season record was 16 wins and one loss.

Brown also played on the Bear football squad. A tackle, he was named to the second Mid-Peninsula team.

Wendell recently climaxed a successful cage season when he was named "Co-Player of the Year" by the Peninsula Sports-writers Assn. Although a guard, Wendell was high point man for the Bears with a 14.2 point average per game. In addition to excelling in the scoring department, the 5' 9" M-A senior also served as field general for his team.

A quarterback on the football team, Wendell served as an alternate to regular quarterback Jim Finegold.

Pegelow, who turned in a consistent performance as a center for the B squad, served as field general for the team. Playing in 10 games, he ended the season with an 8.6 average and was the third highest scorer on the squad.

Ralls received honorable mention by the Peninsula Sports-writers Assn. when they selected their all-SPAL teams. Turner was named to the class B all-SPAL team by the sportswriters.

Bellarmine Beats Bear Swimmers

Bellarmine swimmers invaded Menlo-Atherton's pool Tuesday to beat the local varsity 45 to 32, but although Bear B team avenged the defeat by outpointing their foes 50-18. A number of records were bettered at the meet.

Today, the Bears host South San Francisco in the localtank. The meet is slated to begin at 3:30 p.m.

Mike Mahaney from Bellarmine swam a 59.4 in the 100-yard breast stroke to better the NCS record of 1:04.2. He also set a new record for the M-A pool in the 150 individual medley by posting a 1:34.4. Old pool record was 1:38.2.

Menlo-Atherton's 200-yard medley relay team was not to be denied; they set a new pool record and bettered a PAL record by swimming a 1:55.8. The PAL record is 1:59.6.

The Bear 100-yard freestyle relay B team bettered both the pool and the PAL records and tied a NCS record with a time of 47.9. The league record is 48.1.

Unfortunately, since the meet was a pre-season, non-league contest, the records set do not count in official standings.

Individual standings:

50-yard freestyle: 24.9 by John Schwartz, Bellarmine, first; Pinao, M-A, second, and Jim Schwartz Bellarmine, third.

100-yard breaststroke: 59.4 by Mike Mahaney, Bellarmine, first; O'Donaghue, M-A, second, and Lorton, M-A, third.

200-yard freestroke: 2:13.1 by Stint of Bellarmine, first; Fox, M-A, second, and Brink, Bellarmine, third.

100-yard backstroke: 1:10.1 by Brooks of Bellarmine, first; LaClasse, Bellarmine, second, and Topham, M-A, third.

100-yard freestyle: 58 by Berry of Bellarmine, Eastman, Bellarmine, second, and Hayes, M-A, third.

150-yard individual medley: 1:34.4 by Mahaney of Bellarmine; O'Donaghue, M-A, second; and Sullivan, Bellarmine, third.

200-yard medley relay: 1:55.8 by Brooks, Holleuffer, Lorton, Pinto.

200-yard freestyle relay: 1:41.6 by LaClasse, Bunch, Garcia and Barry.

Diving: 221:00 by Curtis of M-A; Ramos, Bellarmine, second; and Steber, Bellarmine, third.

In the B contest, Menlo-Atherton captured first places in all events except the 100-yard medley relay.

Acorns Finish Season in 62-43 Win Over San Rafael Academy

The Menlo School Acorns closed their cage season with a 62 to 43 victory over their traditional rivals, the San Rafael Military Academy. It was the Acorns' fourth straight win and assured them a tie for third place in the Bay Counties League.

Emeryville won the conference championship, Concordia was second and Menlo and Lick-Wilmerding were tied for third. The locals had a 10-win, four-loss record.

In Tuesday's game, San Rafael stayed close to Menlo through most of the first half. However, the locals pulled away at the end of the second period to take a 34 to 26 halftime lead. The Acorn lead lengthened to 15 points at the end of the third quarter, 49-34, and the gap widened to 19 points at the finish, 62 to 43.

Fred Baumann and Nick Fabian shared scoring honors. Each contributed 18 points to the Menlo cause. Baumann, the season's scoring leader for the Acorns, put away 127 points in 13 games for a 9.8 average. Fabian followed close behind with 119 points in 14 games for an average of 8.5 points a game.

M-A's Track Team To Host Cubberley

If it stops raining today, Coach Don Dorfmeier said early this week, his Menlo-Atherton track team is going to host Cubberley High School's aggregation tomorrow.

First starting pistol is to be fired at 3:15 p.m., the coach said, casting a wary eye at the clouds and hoping that the elements would smile.

So far, the track team has only been rained out of one meet—a relay gathering which was to have been held at Palo Alto, but that doesn't tell the whole story, Dorfmeier explains, because his minions are losing valuable practice time and haven't even had the benefit of complete trials as yet.

All that's been going on, he says, is warm-up runnig and other exercises, and these only when the track team's members are able to find a dry, hard surface.

The turfs and cinder paths at the high school are pretty soggy so this means the use of macadam after school hours when they're not in use by the more "indoor-ish" students.

Other than that, some indoor drills—mostly limbering up exercises and such like—have been held. These are aimed at keeping the local troops in some sort of shape.

Dorfmeier said that it hasn't been necessary to cut anybody from the roster, in fact, it would be inadvisable since nobody's been given much of a trial.

However, he said, a few once-hopefuls have dropped out, after looking over the competition given by some of their classmates.

There are still more than 110 lads ready to run in the three divisions of the local team, should Jupiter Pluvius ever relent and let a race be run.

If tomorrow's meet is drowned out, Menlo-Atherton will face its opening SPAL meeting March 15 with no preliminaries whatsoever. That one will be with Sequoia at the local field.

Gage Stays in S. F. Tournament

Charles Gage, a member of the Menlo College golf team, is the lone remaining Oak participant in the San Francisco Golf Tournament. Gage defeated his opponent two up at Sharp Park on Sunday and thus gains a berth in the finals of his flight which will be played either Saturday or Sunday at Harding Park.

Three other Menlo College golfers played Sunday, but failed to make the finals of their respective flights. Clark Delk and Jerone Tanous lost their matches three and two while Bob Foote lost his three and one.

Oak Golfers Meet Stanford Freshmen Friday

When Oak golfers meet Stanford Frosh on Friday, they'll have their work cut out for them; the Stanford team has been undefeated since 1932.

Six Menlo golfers will play the frosh. Allen Geiberger, the team captain, Jack Lucetti, Bob Foote, Clark Delk, Dave Vanderford and Jerome Tanous are expected to play for the Oaks.

Menlo College's golf team lost its first practice match Monday when West Contra Costa edged them eight-seven at the Richmond Country Club. Eight golfers from both schools participated, but only the first five counted for the team score.

Allen Geiberger, Menlo's team captain, led all scorers with a three under par 69. He downed West's Jack Spinola who ended with a 73. In the second feature match, West's Gary Liotta downed Jack Lucetti of Menlo with a 71. Lucetti finished with a 75.

In the other matches, Bob Foote won 2½ points from Barbara Williams, the female member of the Costa team. Clark Delk won one point from Doug Munsey and Charles Gage won one-half point from Tim Bell.

Rain Stops Three Oak Contests

Rain has cancelled three of Menlo College's scheduled baseball games. On Friday, the Oaks were to have played the Moffett Field Flyers at Menlo. Monday, they were to play the Stanford Braves at Stanford, but were again rained out. The game was scheduled for Tuesday; a wet diamond caused additional postponement.

High School to Reschedule Rained-Out Baseball Games

South Peninsula Athletic League coaches have decided to redo their schedule, since everybody's been rained out of opening season games, Coach Frank Bettencourt said this week.

And as of early this week, too, he said, he wasn't able to cut his squad to the usual travelling membership of 18, because rain had kept him from seeing what the 30 squad members he has can really do.

And besides this, some of the former members of M-A's 1957 basketball team have reorientated themselves from the indoor sport and have decided to take a turn or two at the diamond also.

Under the rescheduling agreed on by area coaches, games scheduled for the first two weeks of the season will be re-set for the two weeks following the season. A series of playoffs known as the Shaughnessy playoffs will be eliminated from the schedule altogether.

Fans who've been hoarding schedules won't get away with just cutting the top off and pasting them on the bottom, according to Bettencourt, however. A complete new schedule is in the works, and will be published in the near future.

In spite of the predominantly discouraging weather, the locals have been ready for a game just about any day, since the opening of the season.

Yesterday, for instance, they were ready to journey to Big Rec in San Francisco to exchange lumps with a nine from Polytechnic High School.

And Saturday they will be ready to journey to Bellarmine in Santa Clara for a practice joust.

Next Wednesday they're going to host San Mateo's Bearcats at Flood Park—if things dry out enough by that time.

The coach still hasn't seen his troops in action. So, he said earlier this week, he's going to stick with the several starters he's been naming during the past couple of interviews as likely prospects.

Frosh Scheduled To Battle Bellarmine

Coach Ed Machin's freshman baseball team at the local Bears' lair was supposed to meet Bellarmine here yesterday, but whether or not they'd manage was, like all the other outdoor endeavors, pretty much in the hands of chance.

Even the weatherman, the coach said ruefully early this week, doesn't predict any more. He just quotes percentages.

Machin was probably as aquiver with anticipation as any of his Cubs. He's got 30 left out of the 68 that turned out and he's supposed to cut this squad still further, but he knows he's got lots of talent and he hasn't had anopportunity to see it in much action.

All of those left on the squad, he said, are veterans of Little League and Babe Ruth League baseball, know the rules of the game and are pretty skillful. So he doesn't want to drop anybody out until he has to.

Next chance the first-yearers will get to show their stuff will be next Wednesday, when they're to meet a Carlmont crew at 3:40 p.m. at the Ringwood rockpile.

REPEAT PERFORMANCES of Somerset Maugham's play, "The Circle," are to be presented tonight, Friday and Saturday at the little theater of Stanford University's Memorial Hall. Tickets to the Stanford Players production may be obtained at the Memorial Hall boxoffice, DA 3-0665.

Dr. Tom Wilson, Veteran SCCA Official, Speaks Before Menlo Park Rotary Club

Dr. Tom Wilson, Niles dentist and a former president of the San Francisco region of the SCCA, spoke on the sports car organization at the weekly meeting of the Menlo Park Rotary club Wednesday noon. Dr. Wilson has been associated with the sports car movement since it had its beginnings in this area.

Local dealers and private owners displayed several of their cars in front of the Rotarians' meeting place, the Fraternal Hall, Roble avenue, Menlo Park.

Menlo Team Wins Friday's Knight-time Rally

George Bradner and Jane Johnson of Menlo Park drove their TR-3 to first place Friday night to lead a field of 32 cars in the Checkmate's Knight-time Rally. A straight time and distance event, the rally lasted slightly over 2½ hours, beginning in San Carlos and ending in Corte Madera.

Tri-Angles Sweep Stanford's Explorer Rally

Paced by David and Bobby Davies of Lafayette, members of the Tri-Angles swept the first three places in Stanford Sports Car Club's Explorer Rally Friday night. Second place went to the Tri-Angles' Bill Olson and Gene Kiggins, while Bob and Ann Cook took third spot.

Thirty-three cars were entered in the four hour event, which consisted of three drivers tests and a concours in addition to the regular rally.

Dick Chilingarian won two of the drivers tests, while six contestants received perfect five point scores in the concours. The scores were based on exteriors of the cars only.

Checkmates Hold Finder's Fury Scavenger Hunt

Bud and Valerie Miller of San Mateo drove 20 miles and picked up all 20 required items to win a scavenger hunt by the Checkmates Sunday afternoon. The distance driven by the Millers included some 15 miles from the Hillsdale starting point to the Old Plantation restaurant in Los Altos. Second place in the event, entitled Finder's Fury, went to Jim Landerkin of Belmont, while John Symons took third.

★ ★ ★ ★

Kiggins, Johnson Win Presidents' Rally

Gene Kiggins and Bill Johnson of the Tri-Angles captured a first place, while Menlo Park's Dorris and Gene Hammond, also of the Tri-Angles, took second in the Presidents' Rally Sunday. Bob Madden and Larry Harris of San Francisco Sports Car club were third.

Sponsored by the Square Wheel Touring Society, the event attracted contestants in 42 cars. The 4½-hour rally was a straight time and distance event through Marin and Sonoma counties. Instructions, however, could be followed only by referring to an almanac, since they were based on dates in the lives of Presidents Washington, Lincoln and F. D. Roosevelt.

Pair Starts One Event, Places in Another

The old adage, "If at first you don't succeed . . .", seems to apply equally to the business of driving sports car rallies.

At any rate, Menlo Park policeman Harold (Andy) Anderson and his wife, Jill, would probably concur with the foregoing statement. They were having so much difficulty with the Hill and Valley Rallye Feb. 24 that they decided they'd never set on course again.

Undaunted, they decided to try their luck on a hare-and-hound event, being put on at the same time by the Knights of the Road. The latter was more to their liking—they took second place.

'Knock and Wait Awhile' 1st Novel by Woodside Author

HAILED AS ANOTHER ERIC AMBLER is Woodside's William Rawle Weeks, who has just had his first novel, "Knock and Wait Awhile," published. Favorable reviews have greeted the story of intelligence operatives; Weeks has received a congratulatory letter from the New York Times, dean of review papers. A native of Denver and a graduate of Stanford, the young author used his experiences as a U. S. intelligence man as the background for the story. —Recorder photo

By MAGGIE MOORE

Members of the local area writers' colony—both published and still hoping—are sharing the excitement and fulfillment being enjoyed these days by William Rawle Weeks of Woodside.

Hailed on all sides as another Eric Ambler, the young writer this week saw the formal release of his first novel, "Knock and Wait Awhile." Fast paced and bearing unmistakable sense of reality, this story of the "silent war" between the intelligence operatives of "our side" and "their side" (democracy vs. communism), has been given the rave reviews that give pride to our community.

"Knock and Wait Awhile" has been welcomed by reviewers on city newspapers and the young author has also a congratulatory letter from the dean of review papers, the New York Times.

The story concerns one Packard Gray, an U.S. intelligence man who has been assigned to attempt to dissuade an American girl journalist from going to Russia to gather material for a book. Her apparent left-wing sympathies and disillusionment with her own people make her an excellent opportunity for anti-U.S. propaganda should she fall into the hands of the Russians.

Weeks produced his first book in a small bare office, tucked away on a quiet inner court in downtown Menlo Park. During the year and a half he spent on it, he commuted into town from Woodside daily, including weekends.

"I do it the hard way," he commented on his writing. "All by hand at first, crossing out and reworking sentences and revising. Finally I get it typed and then work it over again."

"It would be fine if I could write it out on the typewriter — but I find that the machinery gets between me and the story."

The young writer's own personal experience contributed to the book.

"A good writer, I feel, writes about what he has lived through and what he knows," Weeks said. In backing his views he told of the intelligence work he did when after World War II he served in the army, including a year in Japan.

STANFORD GRAD

A native of Denver, Weeks attended schools there and then spent four years at Exeter prep school in New England. At Stanford University, from which he graduated, he came to know and appreciate Dr. Margery Bailey as one of the most "stimulating and beneficial" influences to his work. Dr. Bailey is well-known locally and far afield for her continuing encouragement to young writers. For well over a decade she has given concrete help to many of these through her establishment and support of "The Dramatists' Alliance" which awards money prizes and honors to young playwrights.

Following his Stanford years, Weeks spent several years in Europe and has visited in every country in Western Europe except Norway and Finland. He also visited North Africa.

The appearance of "Knock and Wait Awhile" is not only a source of personal enjoyment for Weeks himself, but it brings a special happiness to his young daughter, Tacy, 9. Tacy once soberly requested that she be written into that book which took her Dad away from home so much. It just worked out in the story that Packard Gray should meet an American family in Europe—and Tacy was one of their daughters.

UNDERSTANDING WIFE

Blessed with a sympathetic wife and having a young son Stephen, 7, as well as Tacy, Weeks at this point in his career is in an enviable spot — except for one thing: the second novel.

He feels that being compared to the British suspense writer Eric Ambler would be a compliment for anybody. He does not wish to became typed, however.

"I am not headed for pure adventure writing," he declared. "I am more interested in individual characters and how they react to a situation. If they happen to be people in the intelligence profession, then their reactions to that life and work are what I try to show. They could be in any other profession or work, and it would still be the people as characters which would interest me."

NEEDS TO BE ALONE

As a writer, Weeks finds that his need to be alone on occasion could be called selfish. He can only point out the need for a writer (or any creative persons) to be able to be alone to "digest" the impressions and experiences he has. What he creates must come from himself so the creative artist must develop himself.

Weeks loves to ski and fly, but has no inclination for sailing of any kind. While not a sports car fan, he drives a Porsche because it is good transportation.

Rumors following fast upon publication of the novel are that Hollywood, too, is interested in "Knock and Wait Awhile." We hope we'll be hearing more from Weeks; none of us suspense novel fans would be disappointed if the next one were in the same category as his first!

SPCA Leads Battle Aginst Prospect Of Legalizing Bullfighting in State

WE WEREN'T AWARE OF IT—AND WE DOUBT if many readers were either—but there's still some interest in bullfighting in the state of California.

We found this out when we opened our mail the other day.

★ ★ ★ ★

IT MAY BE THOUGHT that interest in the so-called sport of killing bulls in a sandy arena is a pastime confined to the Latin countries, and apologists for it maintain that, besides being an opportunity to watch technique, it has a vast and significant symbolism in that it demonstrates the triumph of finesse over brute force.

★ ★ ★ ★

COMES NOW A LETTER FROM the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals which informs us that there are at least a few forces at work to make some sort of bloodless parody on bullfighting legal. Says the SPCA:

★ ★ ★ ★

"Here is your opportunity to strike what might well be a permanent blow at bullfighting in California.

"Although the Spanish and Mexican types of bullfights wherein the bulls are killed are already unlawful in every state in the United States, 'bullfight exhibitions,' 'mock bullfights,' 'Portuguese Tour-adas,' 'bloodless bullfights,' and similar exhibitions, by whatever name they may be called, have appeared in ever greater numbers.

"It is no secret that some of the promoters of bullfight exhibitions desires to so popularize the bullfight theme that the existing laws might be circumvented or repealed. In the U.S.A. it won't work, because in this country bullfighting is not regarded as sport. Nevertheless, we can only preserve our ideals by being ever alert to the threats of those who would destroy them.

"In order to establish a further bulwark against the bloody bullfight in the face of increased attempts to popularize it through the staging of so-called 'bloodless bullfights,' a bill has been introduced in the California Legisature by Assemblyman Glenn E. Coolidge. Coolidge acted after the matter was brought to his attention by a special committee from the State Humane Association of California which called upon him in Sacramento for the purpose of laying the problem of increased fullfighting activity before him. Coolidge is firmly opposed to bullfighting. He authored Assembly Bill 3326 with pleasure."

Add Selected Shorts:

JUST ABOUT THE ONLY CRITTERS that are able to enjoy the athletic fields of the area these days are the sea gulls.

Hardly anybody has anything good to say about these birds, though it's concede by most that they're pretty good at predicting the weather, among other things.

There is a monument in Salt Lake City which attests to their efficiency in detecting plagues of locusts—even at points distant from the sea coast habitat the birds normally choose.

And there's documetnation of the fact that these cheerful fliers were also able to detect bombing raids during th eBattle of Britain.

The sea gull is not commercially valuable.

Sportsmen haven't found him worth shooting.

Whether the sea gulls at Menlo School and College, the Gilmore estate or the Menlo-Atherton campus athletic fields are there these days because they have their own ideas about sports, or because they are smart enough to dodge the tempests of the coast, we don't know.

We'd rather guess that they've come here to look for worms.

★ ★ ★ ★

FORMER 'RECORDER' SPORTS EDITOR Dennis Anderson says he's going to compile a history of Palo Alto High School athletics next summer.

Currently, he's going to College of San Mateo.

★ ★ ★ ★

BUT A MEMORY is the 1957 high school basketball contention of this area. Even though the PAL finale is more than a week old, it wasn't without interest, however.

Observers declare that it wasn't as interesting a game as the M-A Lincoln contest which preceded it, with the Lions forced to come from far behind to close the gap to the final score.

Cello Club Will Present Concert

The California Cello Club will present a concert in the Menlo-Atherton High school auditorium Sunday, March 10, at 3 p.m.

The program will include "Adventures in the Skin Trade" composed by Arnald Griller and commissioned by the California Cello Club. Written in 1956, the title is taken from a novel by Dylan Thomas. It does not try to tell the story, but simply expresses the mood of the novel and the emotional reactions of the composer.

The concert will be sponsored by the American String Teachers Assn., Bay Area Section, in line with their policy of encouraging the development and performance of string music.

The Cello Club is a unique organization, since it is composed entirely and solely of cellos. The organization was formed in 1953 as an outgrowth of informal get-togethers in Berkeley for 10 years. Membership ranges to about 85 members, including cellists of all abilities from seven to 75 years of age.

Admission to the concert is free.

Kite Day Is Rescheduled

The Fifth Annual Kite Day sponsored by the Ravenswood Park, Recreation and Parkway District has been re-scheduled for this Saturday, March 9, at 1:30 p.m. at the Brentwood and Green Oaks school playgrounds.

The event was originally scheduled for last Saturday, but was postponed because the fields and grass in both the Brentwood school area and the Green Oaks school area were wet. The registration period has been extended and any youngster from preschool age to the eighth grade may participate by contacting Julio Adams, recreation leader at Brentwood school or Charles Melick, recreation leader at Green Oaks, or by signing up at the Recreation District office.

Youngsters will compete in the following age groups: Group A, kindergarten and pre-school; Group B. 1-2-3 graders; Group C. 4-5-6 graders, and Group D, 7-8 graders.

Children may enter in the following events: Smallest kite that flies, largest kite that flies, highest kite that flies, and kite with most tag.

Dennis Lose Wins Regional Yo-Yo Championship

Dennis Lose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lose, won the first place award in the Regional Yo-yo Finals held in South San Francisco. Lose, boy champion of Ravenswood, represented the Ravenswood Park, Recreation and Parkway District in the contest. He received a trophy and is entitled to compete in the State Finals to be held in Sacramento on March 15 and 16. Last year Lose came in third in the regional finals which were held in Palo Alto. Lose competed with champions from San Jose to San Francisco. Winners of the State Finals each win a $500 cash scholarship; runners-up in the state event win a $250 cash scholarship and all other state contestants receive a choice of a deluxe racing bike or a three speed record player.

Mikki Sholaas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Sholaas, came in fourth in the Regional Finals. Mikki, girl champion of Ravenswood, was nosed out of the championship by a very small margin.

This activity was a climax of the Fourth Annual Yo-yo contest co-sponsored by the Ravenswood Park, Recreation and Parkway District and the Duncan Yo-yo Company Over 50 youngsters participated in the yo-yo preliminaries and finals on the Ravenswood Recreation District playgrounds.

George Brown Wins Lions Speech Contest

George Brown, Menlo-Atherton High school senior, who resides with his parents at 1106 Pine street in Menlo Park, was the winner last week in the East Palo Alto Lions club student speaker's contest held at the Pythian Castle hall.

Brown defeated Clyde Olsen, 1011 Bradley way of East Palo Alto, who is also a senior at M-A.

The two spoke on the subject, "My Place in 1976". He was presented with a desk-pen set for his winning speech. He will compete in the zone contest of the 20th annual student speakers contest conducted by Lions clubs throughout California and Nevada sometime this month.

Easter Egg Hunt on Agenda of Group

Discussion of plans for Ravenswood's annual Easter Egg hunt will be on the agenda for the March 12 meeting of the Ravenswood Recreation association.

At the last meeting of the association on February 19, it was decided to sponsor a community-wide candy sale. Association members resolved to ask all member organizations to take part in the sale. Instead of the usual procedure wherein all funds from RRA affairs go into its treasury, the organization members voted to share the proceeds, with 25 per cent going to member clubs and 75 per cent to the RRA treasury. Organization representatives are expected to bring responses from their groups next Tuesday.

Gardener to Give Hillsdale Talk

Albert Wilson, local authority on landscape gardening, will be guest speaker when the San Mateo County Garden Center has its bimonthly meeting in the Peninsula Room of the Hillsdale Mall on March 14 at 8 p.m.

Wilson is a member of the Garden Writers' Guild and his amateurs' handbook, 'How Does Your Garden Grow," is now in its fifth edition. He has travelled extensively to study plants and flowers in their native habitat. His half-hour television program on KGO-TV every Sunday morning has been a popular series for the past three years and is a must for all "green thumbers."

Topic for his talk will be "Spring in the Garden." The meeting is open to the public and the Garden Center extends a cordial invitation

San Carlos Meets Hoover in Eighth Grade Hoop Finals

When Hoover meets San Carlos this Saturday noon in Menlo-Atherton High school gymnasium in the finals of the Ravenswood Park, Recreation and Parkway district's eighth grade invitational basketball finals, they will be challenged to meet the excitement engendered last week-end in the semi-finals, according to director Pete Aldrete.

San Carlos eeked out a last-minute victory over Jordan Junior high, when Gaskill wracked up two free throws in the last 45 seconds of play to put them out in front 39-36. Gaskill, high point man for the game, also put through an astounding 16 out of 18 free throws. Leading scorer for Jordan was Langfeider with 14, followed by Marino with 8. Mark Christine coached the losing team, while Verl Thornock was the San Carlos coach.

Hoover found it easier pickings in its tilt with Parkside, for the scoreboard read Hoover, 41 and Parkside, 33. Hael for Hoover and Rodgers for Parkside each scored 11 to lead their respective teams. Koeper scored 9 to take second honors for Hoover and Lauck, with 6, was second high scorer for the losers.

Bob Hesselgreen was Parkside coach, Bill Yoder, Hoover coach.

Rooters from all schools were present to cheer their teams on to victory, and though Parkside came out on the short end, its cheering section was the largest and most vociferous. According to Aldrete, a large number of parents also attended.

Club to Plant Trees at School

A traditional practice will be repeated today when members of the Garden Club of Menlo Park plant Arbor Day trees at Encinal School. The ceremony, under the direction of club president Verne Leahy, gets under way at 2:15 p.m.

Mrs. C. V. Taylor, horticultural chairman, obtained two Red Japanese Maples which will be planted beneath the windows of the kindergarten room.

Every Arbor Day, the garden club plants trees at one or more schools in the area. Members of the club and PTA have been invited to attend the ceremonies.

...es Offer Big Returns by Adding Interest, Artistic Value to Garden

By TERRY LEE

Thursday is Arbor Day and the children will hear about planting trees. I hope you give them the opportunity to plant one in their home or school yard.

There is no other investment for the garden that pays bigger dividends than the purchase of a tree. For long life, artistic value and dominant interest a tree has a hundred advantages over any other plant. Yet year after year so many gardeners I know will spend ten dollars on seeds and annual plants without a thought for their garden's basic need — a tree.

What is more, that ten dollars could buy several fast growing deciduous trees, or a large-sized evergreen like an oak, olive, magnolia or conifer. That tree would live long to add more beauty and value to the property. It is a proven fact that a few choice, well-placed trees add considerably to the real estate value of a lot and home.

It is a sad thing when the gardener ignores this fact, for it may take quite a few years for a tree to attain its handsome size. Every year he delays planting, he adds to the waiting process. Of course, large trees can be transplanted, but it is an expensive process.

For example, a five dollar blue spruce, in only five years, will grow to the size that would cost seventy-five dollars to purchase from the nursery; the same is true of magnolias, oaks and other slow growing trees.

SMALL ONES BEST

In the case of fast-growing trees, it is simply impossible to find a large tree at the nursery because the root system increases so rapidly that it cannot be contained enough to transplant easily. Hence, fruit trees, maples, ash, redwoods, eucalytus and the like must be planted as small trees and their artistic return comes in a few years.

It is folly to delay planting, because that year's lost growth and artistic and actual cash value can never be made up.

When I speak of a tree's artistic value I mean its importance to the spatial design of a garden. Anything above eye level suggests depth and continuity, offers a baffle around which space moves.

Anything below this level, or about five feet, is just counterpoint to the main theme. Hence trees and large shrubs are the major factors in a garden.

They accent the basic pattern and suggest more; they relate the house and man to the rest of the countryside. When all things in the garden are small there seems to be no pattern, and the effect is confusing and fussy. Just one tree in such a situation will bring focus and a measure of design to a garden.

Besides all this, trees can act as weather control in a garden, for they are tall enough to lift wind up over a yard, dense enough to cast cool shade in a hot corner, or deaden noise, or hide an ugly view, and because they are living and breathing they increase the moisture on a hot summer day and offer frost protection in the winter.

The leaves break up heavy raindrops and themselves add humus to the soil, the roots hold soil in place. Trees also act as a home for birds or a house for small fry.

* * *

GARDEN CALENDAR
WEEK OF MARCH 7

Gardeners should treasure every drop of rain which has fallen in the past weeks. It is not often we have soft spring rain just when growing plants want it most. The way camellias and flowering trees have bloomed and the lawn has turned green and thick should prove what a gift the rain has been.

* * *

The lovely daffodils in bloom now require special care after flowering if blooms are to be big again next year. Pick the flowers to prevent them from going to seed, but leave the foliage to die down naturally.

While the flowers bloom, keep the ground soaked with water and the flowers iwll last much longer. After blooming, sprinkle bonemeal on the surface of the ground surrounding the bulbs.

Leave the bulbs deep in the ground and plant the surface with stock, foregetmenots, pansies, alyssum, petunias, marigolds. Mark the clumps with a small stake so you will not injure the bulbs if you get to digging.

* * *

Aphis are everywhere — little green and black bugs that cling to new growth and suck the life juices from a plant. There is a marvelous chemical to use against them (and also scale)—malathion.

Marvelous because it will not burn the foliage and is completely effective.

Three sprayings, at three-day intervals will catch adults and broods. Be sure to hit the insects —they hide under leaves and in the ground.

* * *

Arbor Day is March 7, which not only commemorates Luther Burbanks' birthday, but the principles of conservation of soil and birds.

It is important that every citizen add to the water table by cultivating soil to hold rainfall and using water wisely. He should also return fertilizer to the soil and compost, not burn, green materials.

He is responsible for fire prevention and picking up his trash, and not cutting native trees and flowers. He should also protect birds, for they do him a great service by eating insects and weed seeds.

WEDDING PREDICTED

MR. AND MRS. GAVIN W. CARR

Pat Schreier Becomes Bride At Church Of The Nativity

A prediction came true when Patricia Ivy Schreier of Menlo Park became the bride of Gavin W. Carr of Atherton in a recent ceremony at the Church of the Nativity in Menlo Park.

Nineteen years ago, when Patricia was born, Walter W. Carr, the groom's father, predicted that the two young people would marry. During the years the two families grew apart and lost track of one another, until about a year and a half ago when Patricia and Gavin met again.

Father Richard Hartnett, chaplain of The Magi, young adults club of the Church of the Nativity, of which both of the young people were members, officiated at the Nuptial Mass.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, William John Schreier Jr. of Menlo Park. Her full length wedding gown was of taffeta and lace embroidered with sequins, fashioned with chapel length train. The finger-tip veil fell from a small crown decorated with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bride's prayer book with a marker of orchids and lilies of the valley.

THE ATTENDANTS

Deanna Deauville of Menlo Park served as maid of honor and Anne Ortega of Menlo Park, Mrs. Allen Perry of Burlingame, and Miss Diana Prout of Las Vegas attended Patricia as bridesmaids.

The attendants wore similar afternoon-length gowns of rose crystalette and headbands with veils. They carried cascade bouquets, Miss Deauville's of pink roses and the bridesmaids of pink carnations.

GROOMSMEN

Tom Kernan of Atherton took the role of Gavin's best man and the groomsmen were Richard Jewett and Harry Degnan of Menlo Park and Roy Cleghorn of Oakland. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Edna Crane Burchfield, organist.

Following the wedding some 125 guests gathered at the Marie Antoinette Inn for the reception. Mrs. Schreier received guests wearing a pink sheath dress with matching coat and a gray hat. She wore a white orchid. Mrs. Carr, mother of the groom, chose a brown sheath dress with pink accessories and her orchid was mauve.

Following a skiing honeymoon at Sun Valley, the young couple will make their first home in Palo Alto.

Is Recruiting Local Red Cross

The Red Cross is seeking young women for career jobs on the staff of the national organization, according to Peter Lubchenko, chairman of Southern San Mateo County chapter.

Women between the ages of 23 and 30 are needed to serve as clubmobile workers in Korea, helping the military to provide recreation for troops in isolated areas. They must be U.S. citizens and hold a college degree in recreation, physical education, art, drama, or related fields. Other qualifications are good health, emotional stability, and of course, a sense of adventure.

Also needed are hospital recreation workers for military hospitals both in the United States and overseas. Qualifications are the same as for clubmobile workers, except for a wider age range — 22 to 40.

The military hospitals also have openings for case workers from 21 to 40 years old. Graduation from an approved school of social work is desirable, and the applicant must be a citizen in good health with a friendly attitude and the ability to work with others.

Further information may be obtained by calling EM 6-3851.

IRISH STEW FOR LUNCH BENEFIT

Tickets may be purchased at the door or can be reserved by calling DA 3-3647 or DA 2-5390.

At Menlo Park Presbyterian Church:

Glenda Spear Changes Name To Mrs. James Morley, Saturday

Newlywed Mr. and Mrs. James Morley are on their way 'cross country to their first home which will be at Jacksonville, Fla. The former Glenda Jean Spear and Ensign Jim Morley were married Saturday afternoon at the Menlo Park Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Don Emerson Hall officiated at the 3 p.m. ceremony when Glenda was given in marriage by her father, Albert A. Spear. For her wedding Glenda chose a full length gown of lace over satin made with three-quarter sleeves and a full skirt. The fitted bodice had a bateau neckline and her finger-tip veil fell from a small crown trimmed with mother of pearl. Her flowers were white feathered carnations with baby pink Elf roses.

Two Delta Gamma sorority sisters from San Jose State College served as Glenda's attendants. Barbara Decia of Redwood City was maid of honor and Mrs. Ronald Doolittle of San Jose was bridesmaid. They wore similar afternoon length gowns of pink chiffon fashioned with Sabrina necklines, three-quarter sleeves and cumberbunds. Small scalloped nose veils were fastened to matching headbands and they carried shower bouquets of debutante pink camellias.

Kenneth Morley stood with his brother as Jim's best man and guests were seated by Bruce Tjaden of San Anselmo, David Morley of Menlo Park, another of Jim's brothers, and Gary Spear, Glenda's brother.

VOCAL SELECTIONS

Following the wedding guests remained at the church for the reception.

Jim flew west for his wedding from Newport, R. I., where he had been commissioned an ensign at Navy training school on March 1. He will take further training at Jacksonville, where the couple will make their home.

Shopping In Menlo

By MERRIE PARKER

The Lenten season began Wednesday, and right in keeping with the spirit of preparation for Easter is the reading material collected in a "Lenten Reading Menu" by Polly Spires at The Angelus shop at 1130 University drive. Suggested items: Breakfast, "My Daily Bread," a popular little book on ways to the Christian life; Lunch, "My Way of Life;" Dinner, "Father of the Family." Miss Spires features also "Snacks" and "Spiritual Vitamins" for the children.

* * *

Nearby at 880 Santa Cruz avenue, Flegel's is taking the view of homemakers who plan to refresh the home with new upholstery—either recovering the present sofa or purchasing a new one. They are rightly proud of their extensive line of fabrics. You can choose with an eye to the gentle ravages of the children or not—but all of the fabrics they offer are good-lookin. Prices for these fabrics begin as low as $3.95 a yard.

* * *

Continuing on up the avenue, plan to make a stop at Ralston's "house of half-sizes" for a look at some just-in coordinates. Capri pants, quilted, and in solid colors and muted plaids begin at $5.98. Coordinated blouses begin at $5.98 and you can choose your skirt from plain or quilted styles. Quilted skirts begin at $9.95 and plain at $5.98. These coordinates are all in the freshest of pretty pastels, just right to wear this spring.

* * *

The weather may discourage the thought of donning a summery sun-back cotton — but for those who sew—do explore the enticing fabrics and patterns Stevens has to offer. The store at 673 Santa Cruz avenue is full to brimming with a new spring and summer assortment of fabrics. Stevens carries Vogue, Simplicity, Butterick and McCalls's patterns.

Honorary Life Memberships:

District PTA Honors Two Local Women

By FRAN PRAEGER

MRS. VIRGIL L. BELEW

Two local women, Mrs. Virgil L. Belew of Atherton and Mrs. Marion H. Garthwaite of Menlo Park received honorary life memberships of the Seventeenth District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers at the annual Founder's Day meeting held at South San Francisco High school. Both awards were for distinguished service to children and youth.

Mrs. Garthwaite is children's librarian of the San Mateo county library. She is also a writer and children's story teller. Her newest book, "Coarse Gold Gulch," was a 1956 Junior Literary Guild selection. Others are "Shaken Days," which is about the San Francisco earthquake and fire; "Tomas and the Red-Headed Angel," and "You Just Never Know." All have a California background. Mrs. Garthwaite herself was born in Oakland, and all eight of her own and her husband's grandparents were in California during the Gold Rush.

ACTIVE GRANDMOTHER

Mrs. Garthwaite teaches childrens' literature, teen-age reading and story telling at College of the Pacific during the summer, and tells stories over KQED. She is a mother and grandmother.

Mrs. Belew's interest in young people focuses on the teen-age group. A teacher by profession, she is at present juvenile protection chairman for the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, a post that involves considerable travel in California, plus trips to the Chicago headquarters of the National Congress.

She has just returned from Los Angeles where she attended a Council of Statewide Agencies Concerned with Children and Youth, which met with the Governor's advisory committee. She returns to southern California to attend the State Board of Managers meeting, March 11-14, and then she attends a workshop meeting in Pasadena, March 21-23, to explore better ways of PTA-school board cooperation.

JUVENILE TOURISTS

Among her special concerns is the increasing number of juveniles crossing the border into Mexico, especially Tijuana, where they can buy narcotics, liquor and "goof balls" with ease. Although there is a 10 p.m. to daylight curfew, it has little effect, since the teen-agers cross in the daylight, remain over night and return to San Diego the next day.

Another problem on which Mrs. Belew is currently working is that of migratory labor in California's central valleys. California agriculture is economically dependent on migratory labor, yet the average income of these families is only $1400 per year, and they are not eligible for many types of welfare.

MIGRANTS' TEACHERS

One way in which the California Congress attempts to help the children of migrants is through summer scholarships for their teachers at Fresno State College. Another is a special health project.

Mrs. Belew is also engaged in writing a handbook, "Johnny is in Trouble," for PTA juvenile protection chairmen. Her work in this area takes her to California Youth Authority facilities, sometimes as a guide for District chairmen visiting the establishments for the first time.

Mrs. Belew was until recently director of secondary schools for the Seventeenth District. She is a past president of Burlingame High school PTA. She and Mr. Belew have a son, David, in the service and one attending Menlo-Atherton High, Peter Belew.

Honorary life memberships suppor tthe scholarship, fellowship and loan fund of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers. This year's awards by San Mateo county parent-teacher associations represent a $3000 contribution to the fund.

TWO MENLO PARK businesses will participate in a fashion-luncheon to be presented Saturday, April 6 at Ramor Oaks in Atherton by the Palo Alto Mothers' clubs. Clothes from Dorel's Casualwear Shop and hairstyles by Maurice Williams will be featured.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Mirsky have just returned from a winter vacation in the Hawaiian Islands. The Mirskys live at 29 Frederick avenue in Atherton.

CHILDREN'S HEALTH COUNCIL MEMBERS

NEW MEMBERS of the Auxiliary to Children's Health Council of the Mid-Peninsula were honored recently at a tea at the home of Mrs. Phelps Hunter in Atherton. Among the 32 newcomers to the group were Mrs. Henry Meiggs, Atherton; Mrs. Edward D. Tunis, Woodside, and Mrs. Herbert Hall, Menlo Park. Mrs. Arthur Bachman, Jr., of Atherton was hospitality chairman in charge of the afternoon.

Dance Group Tells Of New Classes

Palo Alto Dance Group is announcing the formation of an additional creative dance class for children ages 8, 9 and 10 on Fridays at 4:15 p.m. at the South Palo Alto library. The class will begin at once upon registration of a total of 14 children. All those who are interested are urged to telephone early for information as there has been a waiting list for this age group.

The Palo Alto Dance Group is a non-profit cooperative incorporated in the state of California for the purpose of providing creative dance classes for both children and adults.

Mrs. Jenny Hunter Groat of San Francisco and Reed College is instructor for the group.

Telephone Mrs. Donald R. Thomas, DA 4-2791, between 12 and 3 p.m. for information on this new class or those already in session.

SISTERHOOD KOL EMETH will hold its first "Bagel and Lox" membership party this evening at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Harvey Koch in Palo Alto. Guest speakers will be Mrs. Hoalte of Los Angeles, Pacific-southwestern representative of the National Women's League of the United Synagogue of America, and Mrs. Leona Goldberg, president of the northern California branch.

Fashion Carousel:

The Circle Completed; Chanel Popular Again

By EVELYN RADCLIFFE

These are the days when almost everyone is thinking of returns. In the business world the returns are of the income tax variety, but in the fashion world, the returns symbolize a complete cycle of the carousel of fashion, bringing back around the styles of the early Thirties.

The business man will be glad when he can stop thinking about his returns. But for a woman thinking about fashion returns is fun, whether or not she decides to buy her ticket for this round. As with the carousel in the amusement park, it's often fun to skip a round or two and just watch from the side, waving gaily to those who have chosen this time to jump on.

The biggest return in the fashion world was that of Madame Chanel to the Paris designers' scene. Her reappearance in the field of Haute Couturiers has resulted in tremendous influence. It is felt the world over, but nowhere more than here in America. The casual air and disdain for pretense in her designs need very little Americanizing.

Her styles are so well suited to the American way of life that she is probably the most popular French designer among Americans. Direct credit goes to her for this year's open jacketed suit, the loose comfortable look, the mountains of jewelry, and the schoolboyish look.

One of the things that makes Gabrielle "Coco" Chanel so popular is her complete freedom from professional jealousy. Her colthes are made to be copied. She likes it. While Christian Dior fears being copied so much that those attending his collections must make a deposit of about $700 (If they are Americans, less if European). Chanel feels that "discoveries are made to be lost."

We believe Chanel is one of the greatest designers of our modern time. In fact, if we look closely we find that it's the Chanel influence on the Thirties that is being seen around now.

What are the latest returns? The full skirted coat nipped in at the waist; the dressy over-blouse under open suit jackets; crepe, which is appearing in dramatic colors this year instead of the conventional black or navy; the gilet, so feminine and so becoming to everyone; faggoting; and big cartwheel hats.

What's the newest of the new? The little chiffon sweaters and filmy chiffon coats over matching dresses; knee length coats and coats of many brighter colors; polka dots (Vogue Magazine says no Paris collection was without polka dots this year); the one-color costume, with everything matching, shoes, hat, dress, bag and even gloves; (we'd like at least the gloves to provide an accenting color); big globular jewelry and lots of it; and bags that look like luggage, huge, brief case types and lady attache case adaptions, some of the costliest made of blond ostrich, simply elegant, and a lifetime gift of fashion!

PARTNERS
IN FIRE PROTECTION

There are two agencies in this community alert 24 hours a day to protect your lives and property from the menace of fire—your Fire Department and the California Water Service Company.

An adequate flow of water is the Fire Department's primary weapon in fighting the flames which last year destroyed more than a billion and a quarter dollars worth of property in the United States.

As a water utility it is our job to see that the necessary volume of water is available at the hydrants when the fire fighters need it. Just like the Fire Department, we continually are striving to improve our facilities so that fire losses in this community may be reduced and insurance rates kept down.

However, the most effective form of fire protection is FIRE PREVENTION. Most fires just don't happen—they are caused by human carelessness.

In order to aid our local Fire Department in its program of public education on fire prevention, the California Water Service Company each month is going to turn over this advertising space to your Fire Chief.

Watch this space next month for the first of these vital and timely messages about the precautions you should take to protect your property, your family and yourself from the scourge of fire.

What's Doing Among Menlo Park Teen-Agers

Sue Legallet DA 6-0295

Well, if you remember correctly from last week ,we had some hold-over copy, so just remember that when you start, you're really one week behind. Wel" tell you when we switch over . . . sometimes it's hard to tell, you know.

There are beaches other than the one mentioned, or so found out Marge Plaisted, Kent Flanders, Teddie Huffcutt, Lindsay King, Sally Decma, Gary Breeding, Bill Martorana, Linda Matson and Al Luchine Friday afternoon when they all went to Playland, then ice-skating.

Boys, oh yes . . . Ray Carter, Hank Hersomia, Ed Maloney, Ed Silvia, Lee Pennal, Les Delacio, Chet West, Larry Ludgus, Keith Vaughn, Cris Clark, Bob Herida and Mike.

Another slumber party . . . another list of boys' names . . . Rich Cottrell, John Finegold, Pete Edleman, Jim Jorgenson, Ted Leinman, John Smurr, Herb Macy, Bob Samuels, Bob Kingsley, Ken Hudson, Tony Carlin, Ed Carlin, Dave Majerus, Ed Scripps, Larry Crammer, Tom Douglas, Sliff Davis, Chuck Robertson, Micky Dorst, Jerry Covey, Mike MacDonald and Mike Skuce. And upon just what party did these guys burst in on? . . . the one given by Sharon Hatlett, whose guests were Sue Fehring, Linda Vionici, Cynthia Witbeck, Mary Lewis, Marcia Mirsky, Vickie Andrews, and Lea Jackson. There was plenty of food to go around.

Still going, well, still heldover. Oh, Senior Ball dinner party given by Connie Kent is next on the list. Bill Adams, Gary Olsen, Deanna Stone, Mike O'Donaghue, Jill Kudlich, Don Schamber, Joan Wickstrom, Bill Pitt, and Ann Christie dined at Kents, then went on to the ball.

And speaking of Seniors Balls . . . Sacred Heart Convent girls had their Senior Ball way last Thursday evening. Where, why at the California Golf and Country Club . . . where else? Dick Crest provided music for the setting, which was "San Francisco Tonight."

Beforehand activities included a dinner party thrown by Adrianne Kernan. The guests were Ed Reynolds, Sydney Gray, Alan Kappeler, Sue DePratt, Larry, Reda Slymn, Joe, Chris Anderson, Ronnie Pinta, Margaret Kevin, Leo Tschaer, Mora Walker, Rich Morrie, Sue Rochford, Mugs Robinson and others.

Then still another event of that weekend . . . a ski trip consisting of Rainbow Girls and DeMolay boys . . . going along from our local area were Frances Miller, Stephanie Sherin, Carolyn Zahnd, Karen Meyer, Ann Wood, Karen Biltz, Johnny Christensen, Ned Hale, Dick Aced, plus others. Soda Springs was the headquarters for the three day affair.

And the last thing for this week (thank goodness, we're beginning to think that another party this week would really almost do us harm). Presbyterians' Young Peoples' convention was held in the city with dinner at the Tonga Room. Some of the one-thousand-hundred kids there were Marge Plaisted, Kent Flanders, Ted Huffcutt, Kathy Davis, Sally Davenport, Keith Holleuffer, Hugh Irwin,Betty Aced,Barb Bond,Darlene Moore, Peg Peppard, Barb Linke, Marty Sleeper and Karen Haynes.

Plus also were Jill Kudlich, Pam Lange, Liz Kennedy, Lyn Nicolai, Lynn Holleuffer, Terry Baker, Dottie Grove, Charlie Johnson, Bobbie Post, Betty Hoehn, Linda Crawford, Dave Hall, Sandy Thomas, and Kathey Watson.

At last we're here . . . up to date, with the news that is. Starting off this portion of the column with a bang is Dianne Hardy's kind of an Open House party. Many kids dropped in . . . we'll start, but if we get them all, we're doing good.

Cheryl Barnes, Nick Nicolas, Carol Leihy, Doug Havoc, Barb Du Fresne, Ed Thomas, B. J. Russell, Andy Schwartz, Judy Rowson, Stan Derelian, Sheri Adams, Charlie Dahl, Sally Christensen, Ed Sylva, Keith Vaughn, Linda Fletcher, Leslie Keck, Dick Perry, Sharon Snow, Buzzy Catts, Jill Papenhousen, Lin Skaff, Mike Williams, and Ken Hudson.

Mucho more . . . John Peck, Butch Gordon, Ed Estberg, Randy Mundt, Jon Potter, Dave Legeris, Larry Crammer, Glen Smallcomb, John Simon, Roger McErlane, Bob Newhouse, Cris Davis, Dianne Van Epern, Cliff DiFranco, Jerry Malone, Doug Kvesth, Keith Jones, Walt Nunez, Pete Vandervort, and Terry Maloney. Do you think that that's enough guests to sit around, eat, talk, and enjoy T.V. and dancing?

There was a wedding this weekend . . . Kathy Summers and Willie Plaza. Attending were Barbara Du Fresne, Ed Thomas, Sue Clancy, Penny Duerr, Lynn Vandevort, Joanne Castanlona, Dianne Kelsy, and Beth Rosener, plus others.

Then, right in the line of things was a surprise party for Phoebe Jenks. Because Nancy Berry, Lesanne Coffin and Kathy Gomes have a free 7th period, they went on over to Libby Bell's to prepare the surprise. Then, Molly Reingpach brought over Marilyn Menta, Sally Christensen, Carolyn Cody, plus the birthday girl after school, and the girls surprised Phoebe.

Sunday afternoon it was the T.N.T. Tri-Y's Tea (try saying that fast) for mothers and daughters at Paula Eisner's.

(Ed. Note: See adjoining news column.)

Really a big bang up weekend was enjoyed by those who went on the Ski trip up to Strawberry Lodge. Forty-four kids went all told, so that means no list. The shing-dig was organized by Lin Turner. Starting out at four Saturday morning, all day in the snow, cards, dance and talk Saturday night, snow-fun Sunday, resulted in tired but happy Juniors and Seniors.

Pam Rea, a Scottish house guest of Sue Hall this past weekend met some M-A girls when Bobbie Linke, Beth Rosener, Liz and Patsy Guilison, Carolyn Carson, Carol Hammon and Barbara Buckles were over at Sue's "chewing the fat" . . . plus real eating of food also. After lemonade and

Hillview Library Benefit:

Hard Times Dance Helps Buy New Books

When the story of the growing Hillview school library is fully recounted, it may be pointed out that it was "born of contest." According to John Martin, the principal of the school, the major contributions of books have resulted from the book drive contests carried on by the children in past years.

Parents have helped the project along continuously and this year the Hillview PTA will supplement the school district's financial efforts. On Saturday evening, March 15, the PTA will hold a "Hard Times Dance" in the multi-purpose room. Proceeds will be used to purchase research books.

OPPORTUNITIES

This year children in the Hillview school are experiencing their first year of uninterrupted library opportunities, Martin said, and teachers and children are finding this a real assistance as they plan and carry out their school work.

Following the early day drives which netted both recreational and research books, a group of interested mothers gave their time to sorting the books and cataloging them. This year the district was able to reserve the library room for its intended purpose and also to secure the services of Mrs. Naomi Knight, whom Martin believes to be "one of the most competent children's librarians in the Bay area."

PARENTS' SUPPORT

During the summer months, a group of mothers came to Mrs. Knight's assistance and they have maintained their interest in and contributions to Hillview's library program. Mrs. Dexter Anderson is the chairman and she is assisted by Mrs. Frank Waites ,Mrs. Howard Borden, Mrs. William Grover, Mrs. Lyman C. Wear, Mrs. Frank Jacimo and Mrs. Roy Melin.

Mrs. Waites and Hillview's vice principal, John Fitch, have organized an active group of school librarians under student leadership of Sandra Thompson, Kathie Edwards, Kathleen True and Maureen Mueller.

STUDENT LIBRARIANS

As evidence of increased student interest, a large number of Hillview seventh and eighth graders are scheduled to participate in a Saturday meeting at Stanford University of "The Student Librarian Association of Northern California."

While the school district has provided the library with a good start in the securing of reading material, the need for additional research volumes is still present. Members and friends of the Hillview PTA will help add to these books when they attend the "Hard Times Dance" which has been planned as an evening of great good fun for all.

Tickets can be secured at the door or from Mrs. Aaron Galant, ticket chairman, DA 5-5333.

TNT Girls, Mothers Have Tea

Members of the TNT Tri-Y at Menlo-Atherton High School held an informal mother-daughter tea on Sunday afternoon so that the Twenty Neat Teens and the mothers could become acquainted with one another.

The afternoon party was held at the home of Paula Elsner in Atherton and co-hostesses were Betty Aced and Judy Gough. Mary Ann Naylor and Joan Harrington assisted with refreshments.

Officers of the new Tri-Y include Mary Ann Naylor as president; Dianne Jarrad, vice president; Estreata De Vivo, secretary and Sue White, treasurer.

Other members include Mary Ann Heisosh, Sue Leisley, Sandy Schultz, Judi Brook, Leilani Harschbarger, Lynne Hollenfer and Camy Cole.

Ruth Frank, Linda Fortney, Mary Ryan, Louise Enyeart and Mary Lou Parham.

Teen Talk

cake the girls headed for a local restaurant, and did what they had been doing even more.

Well, actually the activities of this week are nothing to compare with those of last time . . . but gee, what more fun do you want!

One more big event before we stop for this time. The Holy Trinity Church Ski trip is the title. Coreen Hardin, Jack McPhilips, and Ted Nickleson, the sponsors. (Karl organized the trip, some package trip deal.)

Then to make it complete . . . who went! Ray Honerlah, Barc Corbus, Doug Luna, Sid McLean, Melissa Lowe, Suzanne Horney, Barbara Randall, Cindy Henderson, Doug Hancock, Jeep Jones, Mary Linforth, Jo Beth Hart, Sue Carter, Jane Luna, Linda Matson, Arden Jones, and Gail Stevenson, plus more.

That's it for this week . . . see you all come next Thursday, (but really, maybe sooner).

Joke . . . A wife is a woman who sticks with her husband through all the trouble he wouldn't have if he hadn't married her.

Republican Party Workers To Give Talks

Mrs. Louise Kutsche of Atherton and Mrs. Virginia Cary of Menlo Park, will participate on a panel which will answer the question, "What is a Republican?"

The question will be put to the panel of qualified speakers at the March 19 meeting of San Mateo county Federation of Republican Women which will meet at 2 p.m. in San Mateo. The panel will "help Republican Women discover for themselves just what organizations are available and what opportunities exist for the party worker."

Miss Kutsche, state vice president of the California Republican Assembly, will discuss the workings of the Assembly, which has units in San Mateo county, and Mrs. Cary will speak on the Young Republicans and the TARS, the teen age Republican group.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Fashions of an Era 'Well Gone' Had a Lot to Thank a Whale For

By EVELYN RADCLIFFE
Recorder Fashion Editor

The days of the Nabobs are gone, and with them the fashions of that day. Gone are the encumbering and restrictive clothes, and long may they rest. The good of that fashion is eternal—the beauty of fabric, and the elegant feminity. The rest has made way for the good that is now.

Those were the days when a woman "had a lot to thank a whale for." Not many would have had the 20-inch (or less) waist without the whale bone corsets. Today the discomfort seems too great a price to pay.

Those were the days when hoops were supplanted by the bustle. Chairs were skimpy and narrow and bustles were big and wide. To sit down one had to perch on the edge of the chair and lean forward. Then along came a company with a "whale" of an idea. Warner Bros. (the bra people, not the movie makers) invented the collapsible bustle! It folded when you sat and sprang back into shape when you stood up! That's just one of the little secret intricacies beneath the surface of the 1880 beauties.

Those were the days when the heavy fabric of the skirts and petticoats fell into long trains trailing yards behind the ladies, causing them to bend forward with the weight. This posture became known as the Grecian bend. (Let's watch this, some of us have it now, without the weight!)

Those were the days of gowns by Worth, of elegant fabrics like rich velvets, brocades, beaded brocades and heavy satins. These were only for wives of Nabobs though; others wore cotton and cambric.

Those were the days when even ladies of refinement were proud to have a little of their petticoats show. The richer and fancier they were the better. When a lady slightly lifted her skirts to step up on the wooden sidewalks of Menlo Park, the masculine eyes waiting anxiously for a glimpse of an ankle might be foiled by the fluffy border of maribou feathers around the hem of one petticoat.

Those were the days when Nabobs bought their wives genuine handmade laces from France, lush velvet robes with borders of vicuna, ostrich plume fans, and ropes and ropes of pearls, all real of course.

Teen agers in those days didn't have it so good. A girl had one clean print dress and one spare to last her all week, and one for Sunday best. If she ruined the spare before Saturday she went to bed. The styles for girls of those days were "undeniably calculated to discourage vanity."

WHAT A LIFE!

What a life the ladies led in that era. How many of them had the pleasure of doing their own gardening? The potted plants in the bay window were about the extent of a woman's gardening experience. And no lady ever appeared on a bicycle until the gay 90's. We contend that if they had had the appropriate clothing, their freedom would have come a lot sooner. Before they could take up cycling or swimming they had to get rid of bustle, corset and train!

(Not that there weren't some athletic women in those days. Those who had no lady's maid had to be quite agile just to manipulate the corsets, skirt hooks and bustles that fashion demanded.)

Did you ever stop to think what life would be like with four or five long petticoats swishing about your ankles? How much longer it would take us to get around the golf course, or do the family marketing, and wouldn't it be hard (unaccustomed as we are to it) to go upstairs holding the baby in one hand and picking up our skirts with the other.

What would we do without golf dresses, pedal pushers, flat heeled shoes and Bermuda shorts?

Yes, you can have your good old days. We'll take today (or even tomorrow) when it comes to fashion!
